A Note to the Reader

Out of print for many years, the CARY-ESTES GENEALOGY has been treasured as an heirloom by the few family members fortunate to possess a copy. This volume carries the family history from Renaissance Italy and England and Colonial America up to 1939.

Several years ago I set out to carry on the work of the authors, May Folk Webb and Patrick Mann Estes, trying to gather information on all that has happened in the family since 1939 and uncovering new information. Many members of the family have been very generous and cooperative, supplying valuable data about present and past generations. I will be publishing the new material as a separate, matching volume, the CARY-ESTES-MOORE GENEALOGY, very soon.

In the course of my research, as I followed up leads, contacting more and more family members, I discovered that the vast majority not only did not possess but did not even know about the existence of the CARY-ESTES GENEALOGY. They were unaware of their origins and of their ancestral ties with American and European history. I, therefore, felt that it was important to make this book available to the family and to interested libraries and researchers.

This reprint includes all of the text of the first edition, just as it originally appeared. The coats of arms are being printed as a dust jacket rather than bound in with the text so that those who wish can have them framed. Also, please note the brief "errata" section at the end. These are corrections to the original, based on my own research and information provided by family members. Some of these seemingly minor details are very important in establishing your eligibility for membership in such organizations as the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America.

To make this edition possible it was necessary to borrow a pristine copy from the Virginia State Library, Richmond. Credit must be given to Lia Hemphill, Head of the Reference Department, and her assistant, Marian Erickson, of the Ludington Library, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, who graciously handled the inter-library loan.

Even after the publication of this book and its companion volume, I will continue to gather information on the family. If you have corrections and/or new material you feel belongs in our family genealogy book, please send them to me. After I have gathered sufficient new material to warrant it, perhaps in about ten years, I may publish a third volume.

I welcome your suggestions, comments, and continued cooperation.

Dedicated TO THE MEMORY OF OUR PARENTS AND TO
ALL OF THE FAMILIES REPRESENTED IN THE CARY-ESTES GENEALOGY

"Good blood, descent from the great and good, is a high honor and privilege. He that lives worthily of it is deserving of the highest esteem; he that does not, of the deeper disgrace."

COLTON

Preface

"Those only deserve to be remembered by posterity who treasure up a history of their ancestors."—BURKE.

In 1907 we commenced a research for family history, necessary to join some American patriotic organization.

At that time it was not easy, for only a few persons, comparatively speaking, had considered the importance of gathering data or preserving family history, so our research extended through many volumes of books and magazines, and innumerable pages were turned before efforts were rewarded which enabled us to connect the past with the present.

During that period of extensive research a thought crystallized in our consciousness, that we could be of service to the family and the large connections by gathering this data and placing the records under one cover for future reference and for future generations to carry on what we had begun.

CARY-ESTES GENEALOGY is the result of that inspiration and of many years of work.

It is finished. Thank you for your help. We did our best. Unto your judgment we commit this work asking your kind consideration, for any errors in family history. We were only the clearing house for all material and accepted the information sent us, which we wove together to make this, your genealogy.

This is a labor of sacrifice and love. Cherish it for yourself and for your descendants.

Foreword

"People will not look forward to posterity who never look backward to their ancestors."—EDMUND BURKE

We wish, first of all, to acknowledge with thanks and deep appreciation the inspiration and cooperation we have received from our cousin, Hon. Patrick Mann Estes, Attorney-at-Law, Nashville, Tennessee, for his keen interest in family history, and for his faithful and untiring research for records through the states of Virginia, Tennessee and into Kentucky and Missouri where the Cary and Estes descendants lived and died. He has been most generous in sending us full information obtained and many of his letters are herein published for permanent record.

In person he has visited many county seats and found valuable history; he has visited old homesteads and landmarks and crumbling tombs of ancestors, and has come in direct contact with members of families, which enabled him to obtain material that correspondence could not procure. In a material way he has aided by enabling us to pay genealogists and county clerks for important research for family history. He is the co-compiler of the CARY-ESTES GENEALOGY.

We give credit also to our cousin Miss Annebel Moore of Brownsville and Memphis, Tennessee, who perhaps was the first to recognize the importance of an accurate family history, and obtained Estes wills and data which we are permitted to use in this genealogy.

The writer's sister, Mrs. Lucile Folk Cox, of Helena, Arkansas, has been of great help in gathering material of family records and has assisted in the financial part of construction, and has been our inspiration to continue the colossal work we had begun when the burden seemed too heavy to bear.

We absorbed much of the material that Dr. Edgar Estes Folk of Nashville, Tennessee, had gathered over a period of years, a rich legacy given us in his life and left at his death in 1917.

FOREWORD

In fact, every member of our immediate family and relatives has taken a keen interest in this genealogy, their genealogy, and they are to be thanked for the inspiration, the cooperation and material encouragement to carry on this great work to its completion. The name of each is recorded under his or her family history as given in the body of this book. We feel grateful and wish all to know that without YOU this genealogy could not have been realized. In union of mind and heart there is strength.

The Libraries of St. Louis, Missouri; Daughters of the American Revolution Library in Memorial Continental Building at Washington, D. C.; War records in the Army and Navy Library and Congressional Library in Washington; New York Public Library; New York Historical Library; private libraries, have all supplied books and material of great value in our continuous research. We wish to thank the patient librarians and clerks for supplying the needed books and magazines for our family history research.

We are indebted to "Visitations of the County of Devon," by Col. J. L. Vivian and "Worthies of Devon," by John Prince, for the early Cary records which conform to the records contained in the "Cary Family in England," by Henry G. Cary of Boston, Massachusetts.

Connecting with the Bristol Carys of England, "The Virginia Carys" has the record of Miles Cary, the emigrant, who came to Virginia in 1640 (or 1645) and settled at Windmill Point, Warwick County.

Most valuable material concerning the early history of the Cary Family in England and in Virginia is contained in the book "The Virginia Carys" compiled and privately published by one of the most distinguished members of the Cary connection, but whose modesty forbids the use of his name. His letters have graciously given us permission to use material from his book but not to mention his name.

We are deeply grateful for his service to the Cary family in the records he published and which are the background for connections we have to make in order to continue our lineage to the present date (1938). "The Virginia Carys" closes our lineage with the mention of Judith Cary marrying David Bell and that "this marriage spread the Cary blood and name among a numerous progeny" (page 90). Other Cary lineage is continued in full there.

We take up this clue and continue our search and will find further information in "Marshall Family," by W. M. Paxton and "Colonial Families of U. S.," by George Norbury MacKenzie; "Bell Family in America," by William M. Clemens; "Virginia Magazine of History and Biography" (45 volumes), some of which contain records of Judith Cary and her marriage to David Bell and the records of their children.

"Bates Family," by Onward Bates takes us a step further and gives a clear lineage back to England of the Bates family which connects in marriage with the Cary and Estes genealogy.

Every volume of the "William and Mary Quarterlies," of different years' publication, has been read and has yielded rich returns for the time and effort spent in research for history of the family connections and has shown members of the various branches of the families occupying positions of trust and honor in the old country and influencing America's early life through the House of Burgesses in their locality and later, nationally.

The reference books and magazines enumerated at end of book have been sources of information as to names or dates of history as we have turned their thousands of pages in our research.

These and other records, books and magazines have been looked over for information pertaining to our ancestors. County Court Clerks have faithfully answered inquiries for local family genealogy.

Old letters stored away in trunks have revealed unexpected dates and names not recorded in books. Wills, marriage records on dusty and forgotten shelves of public offices, have yielded treasured information long since neglected. Leaves from old family Bibles have proven a God-given gift in connecting many records; crumbling tombstones and living relatives have supplied names and dates most valuable and necessary for historical facts and perfection of family history. We owe a great debt of gratitude to members of all branches of the family for their interest, love, co-operation and inspiration in supplying material not found in book or any written page. Credit is given each contributor under his or her family lineage. We wish, in many instances, that the information were more extensive but could only publish what was sent to us as a clearing house to arrange in the family group.

Letters numbering thousands have been written for information on family records; hours of research have multiplied into days, weeks, months and years, working to obtain names and dates to connect history of the past with each intervening generation.

Neither time, money (which totals to a large amount) nor personal effort have been spared to make this, your genealogy, as complete a family history as records and personal information would permit.

To compile genealogy is an endless task for time does not stand still and changes are constantly taking place. A perfect genealogy today may find many changes tomorrow, for a marriage, birth or a death, will make new history.

In the South much family history was destroyed by fire or ravages of war, or in many instances never recorded, which makes some family links difficult to trace and to connect with succeeding generations.

We are indebted to Mr. Edward S. Lewis, noted genealogist of St. Louis, Missouri, and New York, who has been helpful in his information.

Mrs. Blanche L. Chapman of Virginia, genealogist of accuracy, has found much valuable material on the history of our early Estes ancestors in Virginia.

The organizations of patriotic societies have created an interest in genealogy and have shown the duty of all loyal American families to preserve history and to keep alive the enthusiasm for records so that other generations may continue to carry on this important American work.

To be well born is a heritage given us by our parents; therefore we feel grateful for that blessing and in gratitude pass on to our children and children's children this worthy legacy.

Unless early records had been preserved we could not have connected with the past.

The Bible emphasizes genealogy and records family history in both the Old and New Testaments and encourages an accurate account of ancestry and preservation of history.

Many of our forefathers have passed into the great beyond and with them knowledge of family history never to be revealed. We deem it, therefore, a duty as well as a privilege, to gather all of the information possible while we are living, and to record facts for future historians. Each generation which fails in this sacred trust leaves a blank page in family history which can never be completed.

We are building not for this day but for tomorrow, and each ancestral stone placed now makes a structure solidly strong for which unborn generations will express gratitude and rise up and call blessed all who have carefully preserved family history of the past and of today.

Gathering material for a genealogy is like constructing a beautiful mosaic picture. We search far and wide for the ancestral stones to fit into the proper place.

As it assumes beauty of genealogical form we look upon the finished work and rejoice that the Master assigned to us the task of searching for and finding the ancestral gems hidden through generations. We recognize their beauty which tones into the picture for the children of today and those yet to be born, to view with pride the achievements of their ancestors perpetuated in the colorful mosaic of the CARY-ESTES GENEALOGY.

Should this compilation of family history be of value and assistance then the joy has been ours in rendering a service to all the beloved members and their descendants.

Again we thank you, dear relatives, for your information, inspiration and cooperation which has made this genealogy possible.

Faithfully yours

MAY FOLK WEBB

The Cary-Estes Genealogy has been read by Dr. Robert A. Stewart, Genealogist of Richmond, Virginia, 1938; by Patrick Mann Estes, co-compiler, Nashville, Tennessee; by members of the families and genealogical friends. We thank each one.

The Cary Family in England and America

*"Let each one who bears the Cary name
Remember whence his shield and motto came;
All that the family have by valor gained,
Must by the sons be valiantly maintained.
Then take the shield; go forward to the fight;
Guard well the roses; may their silvery light
Shine on brave deeds performed for truth and right."*

CARY COAT OF ARMS, CREST

Devonshire: Gu. a Chev. ent. 3 swans, Ar.

London and Bristol: Argent on a bend, Sable. Three roses of the field or three roses of the first on a canton of the second.

Crest: A swan's wings erect, Ar; Beaked and Legged, Gu.

MOTTO

Devonshire: "Virtute Excerptae" (Conspicuous for Bravery or By Valor Gained).

Used by Earl of Monmouth and American Family: "Comme Je Trouve" (As I Find It).

From "The General Armory of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales," by Sir Bernard Burke, C.B., LL.D., page 174.

From "Fairbairn's Book of Crests of the Families of Great Britain and Ireland." Revised by Arthur Charles Fox-Davies, page 82.

From "Visitation of the County of Devon," by Col. J. L. Vivian, page 150.

From "Landed Gentry of Great Britain and Ireland," by J. Bernard Burke, Esq., page 305:

"In the year 1198 Adam de Karry was Lord of Castle Karry in the County of Somerset.

"The ancient family of Cary (Devonshire) derives its surname from the Manor of Kari or Cari as it is called in the Domesday Book.

"Sir John Cary, Knight, represented County Devon in Parliament. For his faithfulness to King Richard II, Henry IV (about 1400 A.D.) banished him and confiscated his lands. His son Robert Cary was a gallant Knight. In proof thereof in the beginning of the reign of Henry V (1412) a certain Knight of Aragon challenged any one of rank, which was accepted by Sir Robert Cary. He vanquished the Challenger and the King restored to him his father's lands and authorized him to bear the arms of the Knight of Aragon, viz, In a field, silver, on a bend sable, three white roses" ("Worthies of Devon," page 178).

The Cary Family Pedigree

The following excerpts from the early history of the Cary Family were taken from "The Cary Family in England," by H. G. Cary, and also excerpts from "The Virginia Carys," which conform to other records of well known historians as given in this book.

"William of Normandy who conquered England, A. D. 1066, caused to be made a survey of the whole kingdom, giving an account of every estate, its size, kind of land, value and often what it was stocked with. This was recorded in what was called the 'Domesday Book' which was deposited and is still preserved at Westminster, London. In it is the record of the Manor of Kari in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Heath, Devonshire, near Lancaster close by the border of Cornwall.

"The small river Kari or Kari Brook, from which the Manor took its name, runs on one side of it. It still retains its name of eight hundred years ago.

"There is, also, the record of the barony of Castle Cari in the central eastern part of Somersetshire, some seventy-five or eighty miles east of that in Devon (page 17).

"The 'Domesday Book' record was made in 1086 and in it the name of the Devonshire Manor is spelled Kari and that of the Somersetshire Manor, Cari. The first person of whom any record is made in this family was Adam de Carye who lived at Castle Cari in Somersetshire about a hundred years later than the Domesday record and it is a suggestive fact that he spelled both his name and that of the Manor, Kari.

"That may indicate that he came from Devon and brought the spelling with him. Another consideration is the fact that de means of, i. e., Adam of Kari, therefore it is no doubt true the family started in St. Giles-in-the-Heath (page 18, "Cary Family in England").

"There is a complete record of the family from Castle Cari. There being no possible doubt of the connection of Castle Cari with the family (page 19, "Cary Family in England").

"For centuries the Castle had existed only in history but the town where it was located is known today as Castle Cari and thus can be found on the maps. It is in Somersetshire and twelve miles south-east from Wells.

"Cari was the family seat of the baron. It is known that it was a fortified place in the time of the Saxons. Much of the time during the reign of Stephen (1136-1154) the barons were divided into two parties, the Lord of Cari being opposed to the King who turned his attention to Castle Cari and took it. In 1153 it was besieged again in spite of its strong fortifications and nearly ruined. Very little is known of it after this.

"The place is marked by an entrance area of about two acres, called the Camp. Implements of war and other relics have frequently been dug up there. The surrounding country is lovely and the views from the hill are famous. In the town are the springs that give rise to the river Cari ("Cary Family in England"). The Cary family in England is one of the oldest as it has been one of the most illustrious and honored in the kingdom.

"The family have filled the very highest positions of trust and honor."

It will be noticed that most of the men mentioned in this English pedigree were knights and most of their wives were daughters of knights. This shows how prominent the family were. (page 23, "Cary Family in England").

"The very ancient and distinguished family of Cary which included the Earls of Monmouth, Viscounts Falkland and Baron Hunsdon had from the time of the Tudors numerous branches, particularly in the South and West of England. One of these was long of note and wealth in the city of Bristol. ("The Cary Family in Virginia" in "Richmond, Virginia Critic," April 26, 1890.)

"As regards the name it is doubtful if it was first applied to a person or a location. Some say it was first used in Kari Brook.

"As William the Conqueror found it in England when he came, it must be as old as the time of the Saxons.

"Prince says: 'I will not set bounds to this noble name from whence it came. If any shall derive it from the son of the Roman Emperor Carus who was general in Britain A. D. 285, I shall have nothing to oppose' ". (page 24, "Cary Family in England," by Henry G. Cary).

The Cary Family—How the Name Originated

(Pages 3-5 in "The Virginia Carys")

(By Permission)

"In the language of the Celtic peoples who covered the British Isles in the time of Julius Caesar, a fortified place was called caer. This passed into a place name and by extension was given to streams on which the forts were built. These names have persisted in Devon, Cornwall, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, where the Celts last held dominion of the land. When the inhabitants of these countries emerged from the family anonymity of the middle ages some of them assumed the names of the lands on which they dwelt. In this way we find family names from caer, in English and Irish variants Cary, Carey, Carew; in Scotland Ker and Carr.

"In spelling, the Devon name has undergone change. In Domesday it was Kari, and so continued down to the end of the thirteenth century; we find it in the form Kary in a marriage settlement as late as 1357. It appears as Cary in the Rolls of Parliament, temp. Richard II, and as early as 1313 in the Bristol Tolzey Book; but in the next century is indifferently Care, Carie, Caree and Carree. By the sixteenth century it had become quite uniformly Carye, and seemed destined to crystallize in that form; but towards the beginning of the seventeenth there is a distinct separation of practice which has persisted ever since.

"On the one hand the Devon and Bristol families, and the Falklands dropped the final e and reverted to Cary.

"The Hunsdons, on the other hand, then began to transpose the final letters and spell Carey, which, with some inconsistency of practice, they maintained to the end of history. This latter standard was apparently set by Sir George Carey, second Lord Hunsdon; thus in his marriage license, 1545, and when he first went to Parliament, 1554, he spelled Carye, but at last it appears Carey on his tomb in Westminster Abbey.

"As the Hunsdons were the first Carys to take a conspicuous place in the world, their spelling of the name has largely entered into the literary tradition.

"Finally, the modern British ordnance map spells the name Carey in respect of the manor from which the Devon family derived their patronymic."

"In England the christian names have been John, William, Thomas, Richard, Robert and George.

"Miles, which has multiplied in Virginia, was not originally a Cary name, but was derived with maternal blood from the Hobsons in Bristol" (page 6, "The Virginia Carys").

"The Carys were a very ancient and most respectable family in Virginia."

"Old Churches, Ministers and Families of Virginia," Vol. I, Page 238 Parish of Warwick Co., Va., by Bishop Meade.

The Cary Family in England

"American Family Antiquity," by Albert Welles, pages 69-119

(The name is spelled Kary and Karry)

"Genealogical and Heraldic History of the Landed Gentry of Great Britain," by Sir Bernard Burke, Esq., Vol. I, page 305.

Visitation of Devon, 1620, Harleian Society Publication 6; pages 47-48.

I ADAM CARYE of Castle Carye, Esq., b. 1170; md. Amy, dau. of Sir William Trevitt, Knight (Vivian's "Visitations of the County of Devon," p. 150). ("Cary Family in England" says Adam de Kari was Lord of Castle Kari in A.D. 1198, according to Sir William Pole, md. Ann, dau. of Sir William Trevett, Knight.)

II JOHN CARYE, Esq., b. about 1200; md. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Stapleton, Knight (Reign of John and Henry III) ("Tuckett's Devonshire Pedigree").

III. WILLIAM CARYE, b. about 1230; md. Alice, dau. of Sir William Beaumonte, Knight (Reign of Henry III and Edward I).

IV JOHN CARYE, b. about 1270; md. Philippa, dau. of Sir Warren Archdeacon, Knight (Burke calls him William).

V SIR WILLIAM CARYE, b. about 1300; md. Margaret Bozon or Bozume of Clovelly in Devon. (This is the first time the name of that very interesting place appears in the records.) (Reign of Edward III and Richard II) (page 26, "The Cary Family in England," by H. G. Cary.)

VI SIR JOHN CARYE, Knight, b. about 1325; md. Agnes, dau. of Lord Stafford, sans issue. Md. (2) Jane, dau. of Sir Guy de Bryen, or Brian, Knight. Named in the Inq. taken 20 Richard II.

The spelling of Carye was changed during the reign of Edward II and has ever since been Cary (page 26, "Cary Family in England"). In the Inq. taken 20 Richard II, No. 127, he is called Robert de Cary, Armiger (page 150, "Visitations of the County of Devon," by Col. J. L. Vivian).

VII SIR JOHN CARY, Knight, b. 1350 at Holway in N. W. Devon, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer. M. P. for Devon 37 and 42 Edward III. Deed 1387 attained time Richard II who died on Friday before the feast of Pentecost 1395. Inq. p. m. 20 Richard II, No. 127. Md. Margaret, dau. and heir of Robert Holleway. Settlement before marriage 1376; survived her husband (pages 176-79 in "The Worthies of Devon"; Vivian's "Visitations of Devon," page 150).

This Sir John Cary was a very noted man. Prince says: "On the fifth of Nov. 1387, he was by the King Richard II made chief Baron of the Exchequer and advanced to be a Judge of the land; who being now placed in a high and spacious Orb he scattered the Rays of Justice about him with great splendor. In this post he continued many years, manifesting in all his actions an inflexible Virtue and Honesty; and, indeed, it fell out at last that he had an extraordinary occasion laid before him, for the proof and tryal thereof, upon which we find him as true as steel, for the greatest dangers could not affright him from his duty and Loyalty to his distressed Master, King Richard II unto whom he faithfully adhered when others had forsaken him."

After the king was put to death by Henry IV Sir John Cary was banished and all his goods and land confiscated for his loyalty to his royal master.

Westcote says: "I will speak of Sir John Cary, Baron of the Exchequer in the time of Richard II. This Knight, neither able nor willing, like a willow, to bow with every blast of wind, so confidently and freely spoke his mind, opposing the proceedings for procurators to take the resignation of his master, King Richard, his true and undoubted Sovereign that there-upon he was dis-officed, his goods and land confiscated and himself banished. Prompt me, Muses, if you can and show me such another man" ("Cary Family in England," by H. G. Cary).

VIII SIR ROBERT CARY, Knight of Cockington, b. about 1375; son and heir, named as heir to his grandfather Robert de Cary (or Sir John Carye, page 150, "Vivian's Visitations of County Devon") in his Inq. taken 20 Richard II charter 9, Sept. 19. Richard II assigning him part of the lands of which his father had been deprived.

Md. (1) Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Philip Courtenay of Powderhan, Kt. Sans issue. Md. (2) Jane, dau. of Sir William Hanksford or Hanchford, Knight.

This is the Robert Cary referred to in the following extract from "Burke's Heraldry": "In the beginning of the reign of Henry V (1413-22) a certain knight errant of Aragon, having passed through divers countries and performed many feats of Arms, arrived here in England, where he challenged any man of his rank and quality to make a trial of his skill in arms. This challenge was accepted by Sir Robert Cary, between whom a cruel encounter and a long and doubtful combat was waged in Smithfield, London.

"But, at length, this noble Champion vanquished the presumptuous Aragonois, for which King Henry V restored unto him a good part of his father's land which, for his loyalty to Richard II he had been deprived of by Henry IV, and authorized him to bear the Arms of a Knight of Aragon, which the noble posterity continue to wear unto this day; for, according to the laws of Heraldry whoever fairly in the field conquers his adversary may justify the wearing of his arms (pages 28-29, "The Cary Family in England")."

"The original arms of the Devonshire family were a silver chevron on a red shield with three swans on it. The descendants of Robert Cary now wear the arms of the Knight of Aragon which were a silver shield with the three roses of the field on a bend sable, and take the swan for a crest, thus combining the two.

Motto—"Virtute excerptae" ("Exceptional for valor").

Burke gives "Comme Je Trowe" (As I Find It) as the motto used by Miles Cary and the American family. "The arms of the Carys of Bristol and Virginia are identical with those of Sir Robert Cary of Devon (Excerpts from "Some Prominent Virginia Families," by Louise Perquet du Bellett, Vol. II, pages 58-60)."

IX SIR PHILIP CARY, Knight of Cockington, b. about 1400; d. 1437; son and heir. M. P. for Devon, 1433. Died on Sunday the feast of St. Tecla the Virgin, 1537. Inq. p.m. 16 Henry VI, No. 53; md. Christiana, dau. and heir of William Orchard of Somerset, named in the inquisition taken on her husband's death (reign of Henry IV, V and VI).

X SIR WILLIAM CARY, Knight, b. Aug. 12, 1437, son and heir to his grandmother; aged 12 years on Aug. 12, 1449. Proved his full age of 21 Inq. 35 Henry VI, No. 30. Beheaded after the battle of Tewkesbury 1471; md. (1) Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Powlett, known as the Knight of Cockington; md. (2) Alice, dau. of Sir Baldwin Tulford, Knight. Sir William Cary left two sons:

1. Robert, b. 1460. From Robert sprang the families of Clovelly, Torre Abbey and Somersetshire (Reign of Henry VI and Edward IV) (page 31, "Cary Family in England").

2. Thomas, b. 1465, from whom sprang three lines of nobles.

Sir William Cary was an ardent supporter of the House of Lancaster and took an active part in the struggle between the adherents of Henry VI and Edward IV in the War of the Roses. At the battle of Tewkesbury on May 4, 1471, the Lancastrians were defeated and William with others took refuge in the Abbey Church. According to the customs of those times the church was a sanctuary and they could not be taken out of it. They were enticed out on promise of pardon and two days later were beheaded. His property was confiscated, as usual in such cases, but Henry VII restored it to his son Robert (page 31, "Cary Family in England," by H. G. Cary).

XI ROBERT CARY, b. 1460; md. (1) Jane, dau. of Nicholas Carew, Knight. Executed a deed of settlement of his estates Apr. 12, 1535; d. June 15, 1540; M. I. at Clovelly, Will II. Ap. 1518; Inq. p.m. 32 Henry VIII, No. 11 named as deceased in the inq. taken on the death of his widow 1547 and his son William 1550. Md. (2) Agnes, dau. of Sir John Huddye or Hody, Knight, Lord Chief Baron (page 150, "Vivian's Visitations of the County of Devon").

Robert Cary, eleventh generation of the Clovelly line, was the ancestor of the Devonshire and Somersetshire Carys. By his second wife Agnes he had a son William, born in 1500.

COLLATERAL LINE—Baron Hunsdon Line: Motto, "Comme Je Trouve" (page 27, "Cary Family in England"). Thomas de Cary, second son of William Cary, was b. 1465; md. Margaret Spencer, dau. and heir of Robert Spencer. ("The Visitations of the County of Devon" gives the name as Eleanor.) They had two sons:

1. John, b. 1495, ancestor of the Falkland line.
2. William, b. 1500, ancestor of the Hunsdon and Monmouth lines. Both of these sons were Knights (Reign of Edward IV and V, Richard III and Henry VII).

William Cary, b. 1500; d. June 22, 1528, at Ladford; three sons named in the deed of settlement executed by his father, who d. Aug. 17, 1550, inq. p.m. 4 Edward VI, pt. I, No. 37; md. Mary Boleyn, sister of Anne Boleyn who was one of the wives of King Henry VIII and mother of Queen Elizabeth. In the private household accounts of the queen it is recorded that the king gave Mary Boleyn a marriage gift of six shillings eight pence.

The Queen ordered the Royal College of Herald's to draw up the pedigree of the Carys. It begins thus: "This pedigree contains a brief of that most ancient family and surname of Cary and shows how the family was connected with the noble houses of Beaufort, Somerset, Spencer, Bryan, Tulford and so forth."

William died June 22, 1528, leaving two sons, Henry and George, both Knights of the Garter (Reign of Henry VII and VIII) (page 38, "Cary Family in England," by H. G. Cary).

The following are the several lines of the Cary family which have played an important part in its history:

Baron Hunsdon line	Extinct	1559-1765
Earl of Monmouth line	Extinct	1626-1661
Viscount Falkland line	Existing	1620
Clovelly line	Extinct	1390-1725
Cockingham and Torre Abbey line	Existing	1400
Somersetshire line	Existing	1500

"The laws of heraldry in England are very strict, each family of the nobility jealously guarding its own Coat-of-arms, and to change without authority or to appropriate another's arms is considered a very grave offense.

"At certain intervals there are so called Heralds' Visitations into the different counties by officers of the Royal College of Heralds to examine into the status of the various families and to settle any questions that may arise.

"As late as 1715, two hundred years after the birth of Robert Cary's son, William Cary, and nearly one hundred years after the emigration of the Bristol Carys to America, the Earl Marshall of England issued a decree to Sir Thomas, St. George, Knight Garter, principal King of Arms, declaring that the Bristol family was the same as that of Devonshire."

Arms of Cary of Devon: "Ar. on a bend, sa. three roses of the field. Crest, a Swan, ppr." (page 36, "Virginia Carys").

*The Will of "Myles Cary" recorded in Book A, page 448, June 21, 1667, corroborates the statement of the epitaph. The coat-of-arms of the original Colonists is represented on articles handed down from early days with this motto, "Sine Deo Careo."

"The Cary Family in America," by Henry Grosvenor Cary of Boston, Mass., says: "The three Carys referred to in the English records as coming to America from Somersetshire, England, were as follows:

*"The records in Warwick County, where this book was, were destroyed in the War between the States. Mr. Wilson Miles Cary copied the Wills of the Carys prior to the destruction of the records. It would be impossible to get all of this data now." H.

JOHN CARY, came to America in 1634 and settled at Plymouth, Mass. He had many distinguished descendants, among them Alice and Phoebe Cary, well known writers of poems and songs.

(See Descendants of John Cary, "Cary Memorials," by S. F. Cary.)

JAMES CARY, 10th child of William Cary and Alice (Goodale) Cary, b. 1600; d. 1681; came to Charlestown, Mass., in 1635 ("The Va. Carys" gives 1639), settling at Charlestown, near Chelsea, after a short stay at Plymouth, Mass.

MILES CARY, (9th child of John Cary and Alice Hobson, and nephew of the above mentioned James Cary), b. 1622; d. 1667; emigrated to Virginia in 1640 (some historians say 1645); d. of wounds in battle with the Dutch at Hampton Roads; buried at Windmill Point, Warwick County, Virginia." (See Sketch.)

THE BRISTOL FOREBEARS

A great deal of information, in fact, most of the early history of the Virginia family, is taken from "The Virginia Carys", with letter of permission from the author, as follows:

December 7, 1927—"Madame: Responding to your note, you are welcome to use the material from 'The Virginia Carys' to which you refer. In doing so please credit that book by name but do not mention my name which is nowhere printed in the book."

We copy this material, for it is so valuable, and not accessible for everyone to read.

Copied from "The Virginia Carys," pages 11—14:

"In 1699, thirty-two years after Miles Cary, our Virginia immigrant, was dead and buried, three of his kinsmen of the Bristol family who had achieved fame and fortune as English merchants engaged in overseas trade, united in an application to the Heralds' College for confirmation to them and their descendants of the right to bear the arms of Cary of Devon, which they certified they and their ancestors in Bristol had borne, 'time out of mind,' in accordance with 'the constant tradition' that they were descended from a cadet of the Devon family.

Although many of the Bristol Carys were buried in the crypt of St. Nicholas Church, including two Mayors, they do not seem to have erected there any family monument showing achievement of arms; certainly none has survived. (It may be noted then, in passing, that Miles Cary's (1667) tombstone in Virginia (see page 35) is the only recorded and surviving evidence of such use of arms by the Bristol family prior to 1699.)

In accordance with the Virginia fashion Miles Cary's descendants displayed the arms consistently throughout the eighteenth century, on tombs, signet rings, table plate, coach panels, book plates, etc. At the end of the nineteenth century the practice was resumed.

With the consent of the contemporary head of the Devon family the application was granted by the Earl Marshal. In support of this application there was filed a certificate of the Chamberlain of Bristol from the Great Red Book of Bristol, then known as the Tolzey Book, as to Carys who had held municipal office in Bristol, viz.: Lawrence de Cary, Senister, 1313; John de Cary, Bailiff, 1350-3; William Cary, Sheriff, 1532, and Mayor, 1546; William Cary, Sheriff, 1599, and Mayor, 1611; and Christopher Cary, Sheriff, 1612. There was admitted, also (1699), a pedigree beginning with William Cary who was Mayor, 1611, which was subsequently supplemented by the fuller pedigrees of 1700 and 1701, all still on file in the Heralds College.

By means of the surviving wills and parish registers, it has been possible to carry the Heralds' College pedigrees back two generations to the William Cary who was Mayor, 1546; but with him evidence fails.

There are no earlier surviving parish registers on which to construct a detailed pedigree, neither have there appeared, although diligent search has been made in Bristol and elsewhere, any wills, monumental inscriptions, guild rolls, real estate muniments, etc., upon which might be proved the connection which in 1699 the Bristol Carys evidently claimed, by tradition, between William Cary, Mayor, 1546, and the earlier Lawrence and John de Cary. Doubtless such evidence, if any, as once existed, was destroyed either during the life of the first Mayor of the family when the churches were pillaged, temp. Henry VIII and Edward VI, or later in the disorganization of Bristol during the civil wars, temp. Charles I.

The persistent modern attempts to establish identifications with specific members of the Devon family have therefore been genealogically futile. Thus e. g., the assertion, by one who has not proved his own connection with the Bristol family ("The Cary Family in England," Boston, 1906), that William Cary, the Mayor of 1546, was the William Cary who was the last of the Ladford line, not only proceeds directly in the face of Prince's statement ("Worthies of Devon") that the Ladford line was extinct in his time, say 1697, but is contradicted, also, by Colonel Vivian's demonstration ("Visitations of Devon, Exeter, 1895") that the last William Cary of Ladford left a daughter and heiress, who married and carried Ladford into the Helyar family."

Excerpts of a letter written in 1932 by a member of the Cary family living in America:

"Regarding the information on points of interest in England. William Cary was Mayor of Bristol in 1546. The British Tramways and Carriage Co. Ltd. run sightseeing buses from Bristol. On one of their tours is a little town called 'Castle Cary.' The ruins of the old castle are still apparent, I believe. The town of Exeter, in Devon, is a place of interest. Here the Carys first held forth. The name was then spelled Karew. The Cathedral in Exeter is extremely interesting and many of the old tombs are apparent. The then Sheriff of Exeter was a Cary."

BRISTOL CARYS

It would be more honorable to our distinguished ancestors to praise them in words less, but in deeds to imitate them more. H. Mann.

I WILLIAM CARY, b. 1500 (some historians give 1492); d. March 28, 1572; "the Elder dwelling upon ye Backe in St. Nicholas Parish, in ye citty of Bristoll." He was sheriff of Bristol, 1532, and Mayor, 1546, temp. Henry VIII. He had five children by two wives, but outlived his sons and was buried in the crowde (i. e., crypt) of St. Nicholas Church, Mar. 28, 1572, temp. Elizabeth, leaving a will dated Apr. 2, 1571, and proved June 10, 1572 (P.C.C. Daper, 19). Having evidently retired from business when he made his will, he does not give his trade, but he was, undoubtedly, a "draper" like his son, RICHARD "the younger," who lived and so carried on his business in his father's house.

Md. (1) name unknown.

Children:

- 1 RICHARD, b. 1515 (?) "the elder" (of whom further).
- 2 Agnes, md. (1) 1544, Humphrey Cooper; (2) ante 1569, Thomas Dickinson, of Bristol.
- 3 Susan, md. ante 1571, John Laçy, of Bristol.
- 4 William, "of London, citizen and clothworker;" md. (2) Agnes, d. 1559.
- 5 Richard, "the younger, draper, dwelling upon the Back of the City of Bristol."

II RICHARD CARY (son of WILLIAM CARY¹), b. 1515(?); d. 1570; "the elder of the City of Bristol, Merchant." He was buried June 17, 1570, two years before his father, in St. Nicholas Church, leaving a will dated June 11, 1570, and proved Nov. 3, 1570 (P. C. C. Lyon, 31.). Md. (1) Anne (d. ante 1561).

III WILLIAM³ CARY (RICHARD², WILLIAM¹), 1550-1633, "the elder," of the City of Bristol, draper.

As shown by the Bristol Tolzey Book, he was Sheriff of Bristol, 1599, and Mayor, 1611, and thereafter Alderman. The St. Nicholas parish register shows his baptism October 3, 1550, his first marriage January 14, 1572, O. S., and his burial March 1, 1632, O. S., with the baptism of most of his children. The annals of Bristol (Alderman Haythorne's "MS in Chronological Outline of the History of Bristol, 1824") has this record of him:

"This Mayor was afterwards Keeper of the Back Hall (i. e., the 'Merchant Venturers' headquarters, on Bristol Back, otherwise known as Spicer's Hall), in which time his wife, an ancient woman, died; and four score years old or more, he married his servant by whom he had a son, having then sons living that were nearly three score years old."

He left a will dated March 1, 1632, O. S. (the same day he was buried), and proved June 15, 1633. The record is in Great Orphan Books (Council House, Bristol, iii, 311). (See Will page 23.) Md. (1) 1573, Elizabeth (or Alice) Goodale (d. 1623).

Children:

- 1 William, 1577-1638, o. s. p. m. Md. twice; several children, of whom two were sons.
- 2 Richard, 1579-1644, draper of Bristol; md. Mary Shershaw; had eight sons and nine daughters.
- 3 JOHN, b. 1583; d. 1661; md. (1) Elizabeth Hereford; md. (2) Alice Hobson (of whom further).
- 4 Walter, 1588-1633, draper of Bristol; md. Grace Browne. (Left will.)
- 5 Robert, 1589-1628, draper of Bristol; md. Anne Thomas. (He had four daus. and two sons mentioned in his will. According to the Heralds College pedigree of 1700, this family became extinct during the civil wars.)
- 6 Anne, 1590, o. s. p. ante 1632.
- 7 Susan, 1592, o. s. p. ante 1632.
- 8 Margery, md. Hugh Yeo of Bristol (Mary Yeo md. Shershaw Cary).
- 9 Thomas, 1596-1648, md. Joan Milner; had son Walter. (Nothing more is known of the son, who probably died infans.)
- 10 James, 1600-1681, of Charlestown, Massachusetts.
Baptized at St. Nicholas, April 14, 1600. He emigrated to the Massachusetts colony in 1639, the pioneer American of his family. His record at Charlestown is complete, including his tombstone recording his death: "November 2, 1681, aged 81 years." (See "Savage, Genealogical Dictionary . . . of New England," 1860.) From him descended a line of sea captains, merchants and clergymen who have maintained the Bristol tradition in New England.

Md. (2) 1624, Mary Llewelyn.

Children:

- 11 Anne, 1624; d. infans. 12 Henry, 1625, post 1700, of Marlborough Wilts. (If this family has persisted its identity has been lost to the record.)

(Sources: "The Bristol Wills;" "Parish registers of St. Nicholas and St. Thomas, Bristol;" "Heralds' College pedigrees of 1699 and 1700." Pages 18-20, "The Virginia Carys.")

IV JOHN⁴ CARY (WILLIAM³, RICHARD², WILLIAM¹), 1583-1661, draper of Bristol. Baptized at St. Nicholas, April 10, 1583, and buried with his second wife in the Church of All Saints, February 13, 1661, he is described as "draper" in Henry Hobson's funeral certificate of 1637 and the will of 1660 of his granddaughter Alice Cary. There is no record of any will left by him. It is evident that, with others of his family, he suffered severely in estate during the civil wars when Bristol was alternately in possession of roundheads, cavaliers and roundheads again, both parties preying on the resident merchants.

The Heralds' College pedigrees of 1699 and 1701 give all the other information we have of him. He md. (1) 1609, Elizabeth Hereford.

The evidence for this marriage is the Heralds' College pedigree of 1701, filed by John Cary, 1644-1701, sometime of Surry County, Virginia (and later of London, and a director of the "English Company Trading to the East Indies"), to support his application as a representative of the Bristol Carys for confirmation of the arms of Cary of Devon. This pedigree begins: "John Cary, of the City of Bristol in co. Somerset, and Elizabeth Hereford, married 29th May 1609." No reference is made to John Cary's descent or to William Cary who was Mayor of Bristol, 1611, with whom the pedigrees of 1699 and 1700 begin.

The pedigree of 1701 was then apparently intended to be read with the pedigree of 1700, filed by John and Richard Cary, sons of Shershaw Cary, in amplification of their original pedigree of 1699. There is no other possible John Cary of Bristol shown on the pedigrees of 1699 and 1700 than the John Cary who was the father of the Virginia immigrant (Miles Cary), by Alice Hobson; but as there is no reference on the pedigrees of 1699 and 1700, or elsewhere than on the pedigree of 1701 to any other marriage of John Cary than that to Alice Hobson, the identification of the John Cary who married Elizabeth Hereford with the John Cary who married Alice Hobson is not conclusive. It is persuasive, however. On the date of Elizabeth Hereford's marriage, the John Cary who afterwards married Alice Hobson would be 26 years of age. We have no proof of the date of Alice Hobson's marriage; the surviving parish register of All Saints', Bristol, in which we might expect to find it recorded, does not begin until 1621, and so the first evidence of that marriage is the baptism of the third son, Richard.

Receding from this date, 1621, and allowing as many years as may be necessary for the births of Henry and Matthew, the sons of Alice Hobson, who preceded Richard, as shown by Henry Hobson's will and the pedigree of 1699, we still have an ample margin for John Cary to have had his first experience in matrimony with Elizabeth Hereford and to have been the father, after 1609, of her five children enumerated in the pedigree of 1701. In any event John Cary could not have married Alice Hobson before 1617, when he would be thirty-four, a late age for a first marriage in that family and at that time, but a probable age for a second marriage in a family which had consistently practiced second marriages.

Finally, there is no inconsistency in the names of the children of Elizabeth Hereford (John, Thomas, Philip, Prudence and Elizabeth) and those of Alice Hobson (Henry, Matthew, Richard, Miles, Alice, Honor and Mary).

Children of John Cary and Elizabeth Hereford:

- 1 John, 1610(?)–1656(?) of Hackney. (The Herald's' College pedigree of 1701 says that he married, left issue and "died about the year 1656." He has not been further identified.)
- 2 Thomas, 1613 (?); md. Susanna Limberry, of Dartmouth, Co. Devon.
- 3 Philip. (The Herald's' College pedigree of 1701 records him simply as "3rd son of John Cary and Elizabeth Hereford." No further record of him has been identified.)
- 4 Prudence, "Eldest daughter."
- 5 Elizabeth, "2nd daughter."

Md. (2) 1617(?), Alice, dau. of Henry Hobson, Innholder and sometime Mayor of Bristol. (See Henry Hobson's will, pages 23-24.) (Henry Hobson's wife was Alice Davis dau. of William Davis, of Bristol.)

Children:

- 6 ' Henry, 1618 (?) post 1634. (No record of him has been identified except the name in the Heralds' College pedigrees and the reference in Henry Hobson's will of 1634 as then living.)
- 7 Matthew, 1620-1648, of Stepney, mariner. (He is named in his grandfather Hobson's will of 1634 and himself left a will, dated Oct. 22, 1647, and proved August 12, 1648 (P. C. C. Essex, 115), describing himself as "mariner," naming his daughter Alice, his brother Richard and his wife Isabel, the latter then living "Upon Wapping Wall in the Parish of East Stepney." The daughter Alice completes the identification by her will of 1660.)
- 8 Richard, 1621, post 1660. (He was baptized at All Saints', Bristol, July 29, 1621; is mentioned in his grandfather Hobson's will of 1634, in that of his brother Matthew, and in that of his niece Alice Cary, of Stepney, as living 1660.)
- 9 MILES, 1622-1667. The Virginia immigrant, settled at Windmill Point, Warwick Co., Virginia (of whom further).
- 10 Alice, 1625; md. (1) Thomas Hayman; (2) William Payne.
- 11 Honor, 1627(?) - 1644.
- 12 Mary, 1630. (The record of the daughters is mentioned of Alice and her marriage in the Heralds' College pedigree of 1699; all three are named in the order given in the will of their grandfather Hobson, as living 1634; the baptism of Mary, November 8, 1630, and the burial of Honor, November 6, 1644, are registered at All Saints', Bristol.)

Miles Cary and His Virginia Descendants

Miles Cary, the immigrant from Bristol, England, came to Virginia in 1640 or 45 (historians vary), and settled at Windmill Point, Warwick County. Miles Cary was the ninth child of John Cary, merchant of Bristol, and fourth child by his second wife, Alice Hobson, daughter of Henry Hobson, Innholder and sometime Mayor of Bristol.

Miles Cary has many descendants who are recorded in "The Virginia Carys," but since it would be a colossal task, and to some extent a duplication of families already recorded in that book to carry out every lineal descendant, we are endeavoring to complete the lines nearest our own family branch of the ancestral tree, which takes in the Bell, Bates, Estes, Folk, Rice families and their lineal descendants.

Since there is so much of interest in "The Virginia Carys," and the author, in a letter, has granted us permission to use what we like of its history, we copy a great deal from its pages for the benefit of those who may read this book but who are not so fortunate as to possess a copy of that invaluable history of the Cary family in its earliest setting.

It has been of inestimable value to us in compiling the Cary family genealogy and has enabled us to connect with other historians in the search for continued records to bring our family history to date. M.F.W.

"The immigrant, Miles Cary, flourished in Virginia in the second consulship of Sir William Berkeley. After a busy career in trade and politics, in which he attained prosperity and a seat in the Council, he was 'killed by ye Dutch' during their foray upon Hampton Roads in June 1667.

He left (had seven children) four sons, who, we gather from the surviving records, began life respectively as a merchant, a builder, a surveyor and a miller; all were considerable landowners and all took part in public life.

Each of these sons founded a family; by intermarriage their descendants allied themselves with other 'Peninsula' families of their own kind and similar origin and so established a wide connection of Virginia cousins.*

* "In a warm and characteristic appreciation of the Peninsula between James and York Rivers, Governor Henry A. Wise says ("Seven Decades of the Union," 1872, p. 29): 'It is a land of genial climate, of generous soil, of

An illustration of the justice of terming the Peninsula immigrants a 'stock' is found in the following record of one among these families, in which recur twenty-three of the forty names in Governor Wise's list; if we had followed up the distaff lines we could, doubtless, have included them all.

As the bluest tincture of Cary blood in Devon was a dilution of Plantagenet, so in Virginia, measured by Virginia standards, we may reckon and note the Randolph infusion of Pocahontas.

We have noted that the English Carys have maintained throughout their history relatively the same place in the world with which they started, that by their marriages in the early generations in Devon they acquired with their lands a local self-conscious clan sense; but they did not become great nobles or compelling popular leaders. Such, precisely, is the family history in Virginia, also. During the eighteenth century, they were leading public men in their several communities, magistrates and legislators. Their official vocations were practically hereditary. Most of them were in the commission of the peace and took their turns as High Sheriff; actively serving in the militia as well, they were, after the Virginia fashion, always designated by military titles.

In one branch of the family they produced six successive clerks of the old County Court, most of whom served also in the important function of permanent clerks of legislative committees; another branch produced four successive Naval officers in the revenue service, a lucrative and much sought office in eighteenth century Virginia; among their several burgesses at least three (Miles, the immigrant, Miles of "Richneck" and Archibald of "Amphill") were of first rate importance in the General Assembly, and they claim one majestic rivers, of fruitful fertility of fields and of forests of richest frondage; above all distinguished for its men and women. It was settled by a race, or rather stock, of families the like of which will rarely be seen again, so manly, so refined, so intelligent, so spirited, proud, self-reliant, independent, strong, so fresh and so free.

The family names of this peninsula known to honor and to fame are countless: The Amblers, Armsteads, Barrons, Bassetts, Blairs, Burwells, Byrds, Carys, Carters, Christians, Cloptons, Coles, Dandridges, Digges, Dudleys, Fontaines, Gregorys, Griffins, Harrisons, Innesses, Kennons, Lightfoots, Mallorys, Nicholsons, Nicholasses, Nelsons, Pages, Peachys, Randolphs, Saunders, Sclaters, Semples, Shields, Tabbs, Tazewells, Tuckers, Tylers, Wallers, Wythes and numerous others no less known or renowned from whom have sprung names of distinction in every Southern and Western state as well as in other parts of Virginia and of America.'")

member of the Council and one of the Judges of the first Supreme Court of Virginia. One of them was an original trustee, named in the royal charter of William and Mary College of 1691, who later served also as Rector; following him, there was an uninterrupted identification of the name with that ancient and honorable institution for six successive generations, including eighteen students whose names appear on the incomplete surviving records, and three Visitors. Two of them were educated in England, one at Trinity College, Cambridge. Throughout the colonial period they were steadfast adherents of the Established Church, usually serving in their respective vestries, though two of them affiliated, for a time, with the Quakers. (Since then, perhaps every protestant denomination has had a descendant of the Carys on their church rolls.)

They have steadfastly maintained their ideal. In the American Revolution they stood, without exception, on the patriot side and made substantial sacrifices in doing so. While as soldiers they never were in the foremost, yet, in the Revolution, in the War of 1812, in the Mexican War of 1846-48 and in that against Spain in 1898, several of each generation bore arms for the Commonwealth. In the epic war between the States, conspicuously they did their part; then, practically all of them (actually eighteen are identified) were in the field and made poignant sacrifice. In the war against Germany (just ended), one of them dauntlessly gave his young life in a fine attempt to aid a comrade, and many enlisted, loyal to their country's call (1918).

Descendants of each of the immigrant's sons are still to be found in Virginia after two hundred and fifty years (1919).

"While this is an interesting fact, demonstrating not only persistence but a characteristic conservatism, the family has not been altogether sitfast. Each of its branches has contributed emigrants to the westward growth of the United States. Soon after the Revolution, most of the representatives of what is now the senior line moved to the new lands of the Western frontier and reseeded themselves in Kentucky and Tennessee; many of their descendants, spreading further west, crossed the Mississippi and have since lost touch with their Virginia kin. Again, in the renewed economic migration which bled the Old Dominion during the second quarter of the nineteenth century, a number of them established homes in the Southwest and in Maryland, some seeking opportunities in the far South, in the far West and in the far East.

Wherever they have been, at home in Virginia or adjusting themselves to new and strange environments, they have held up their heads with honor, dignity and self respect, and have continued to reproduce inherited characteristics. They have clung to an intense local pride in their origin, and, without being the less good Americans, have continued to cherish the memories and institutions of colonial Virginia, and to speak its racy tongue. Their women have maintained their old tradition of charm and character; their men have, generally, acquired a liberal education and have with spotless honor done their work, chiefly in the professions. They have been unusually successful. Not the least interesting characteristic of this family is the periodical revolution which may be observed in their domestic habits. Roughly stated, for the first two hundred years of their history they were feudal landlords in rural Devon; then in Bristol for two centuries more, part of the highly centralized and circumscribed urban and guild life of a medieval municipality; then in colonial and 'ante-bellum' Virginia for another like period, once more patriarchal landlords, so attached to the soil, indeed, as to resist all attempts of government to herd them in towns; now in a fourth cycle, with the changes in American civilization, they are again 'Citizens.'

The distinction of this family is its persistence and even honorable tenor; if they have not risen high (many of the descendants have and do fill highest positions in business, politics, social and civic life) neither have they lapsed low. These are qualities which, if not romantic, make a strong appeal to the imagination of most men of gentle breeding, not the least in a world engaged in making 'the world safe for democracy' for they spell Home. In all respects the Carys are a typical Virginia family.

Even in the midst of revolution men crave permanence in something; our age finds it in religion, but, undaunted by experience, still seeks it in the ideal of home. A thoroughly modern poet has finely combined the two cravings in the phrase:

'God, who is our Home.' "

I MILES CARY⁵ (John⁴ of Bristol, England, William³, Richard², William¹), b. 1622; d. 1667 at Windmill Point, Warwick County, Virginia; baptized at All Saint's Church, Bristol, England,

January 30, 1622, O. S. He emigrated to Virginia about 1640 or 1645 where the first record of him is on the bench of the Warwick County Court, 1652; Lieutenant Colonel, 1657; County Lieutenant, 1660; Collector for the Tobacco Duties for James River; Escheator General for the Colony; Burgess, 1659-1660, being member of the "Public Committee" of the Assembly (Hening, II, 31); advanced to the Council, 1665. He maintained a water-mill and a mercantile business, both of which are mentioned in his Will.

Died, probably, from wounds during the Dutch raid on Hampton Roads in June 1667.

He had acquired his father-in-law's lands at Windmill Point and Magpie Swamp, and others, aggregating more than 2,600 acres in Warwick, including the plantations afterwards known as "The Forest," "Richneck" and "Skiff's Creek" (Mulberry Island).

He married (in Virginia not later than 1646) Anne Taylor, born, 1621; died about 1685 in Virginia (dau. of Captain Thomas Taylor). (The surviving evidence for this marriage is the reference in Miles Cary's will to "my father-in-law, Thomas Taylor, deceased.")

Captain Thomas Taylor, b. 1600 in England; d. 1656 in Warwick County, Virginia; probably buried in graveyard at Windmill Point, Justice of County Court, 1645-1656; Burgess, 1646; Captain of Militia ("Hening's Statutes," Vol. I, page 323).

"In his patents of 1657 Miles Cary recites that he had acquired Thomas Taylor's property by devise and he returns Anne Taylor by her maiden name as a headright. She is described in the 1682 patent of Miles, second, as his 'mother, Mrs. Anne Cary,' and so was living fifteen years after her husband's death. She was, undoubtedly, buried, as was also, probably, her father, in the graveyard at Windmill Point.

No evidence has yet appeared to identify this Taylor family definitely. Thomas Taylor was one of the original patentees in Elizabeth City in 1626 (Hotten, 273), and in 1643 took up 600 acres in Warwick. In 1646, he sat as Burgess for Warwick and as late as 1652 was in the commission of the peace.

In the patent of 1643 he is styled 'Mariner.' He was, probably, a British sea Captain, long engaged in the Virginia trade, who retired from the sea to Warwick. His relation to Miles Cary suggests that he may have been of the family of John Taylor, Alderman of Bristol, who is mentioned in relation to the Bristol Carys in the 1652 Will of the Bristol Clergyman, Robert Perry (P.C.C. Bowyer, 243; Va. Magazine, XI, 364)." (We have seen that there had already been a Taylor-Cary marriage in Bristol.)

WINDMILL POINT, WARWICK COUNTY, VIRGINIA

"The first home of the Warwick Carys in Virginia was the high bluff which divides Warwick River and Potash Creek at their confluence, facing Mulberry Island (or, as it is locally called, "Mulbri 'land"). Here in 1643, on a plantation known as Windmill Point, a Bristol merchantman, Captain Thomas Taylor, found a snug harbor, safe from the privateers of the Parliament (cf. Neill, "Virginia Carolorum," 178), and here he was succeeded by his son-in-law, Col. Miles Cary; here in turn succeeded the eldest son of our immigrant Major Thomas Cary.

The Windmill Point property. The first settlements on Warwick (then known as Blunt's Point) River, below Martins Hundred, were made after the Indian massacre of 1622. From the patents it appears that John Baynham (spelled, also, Bainman and Burnham) had an ancient patent dated December 1, 1624, for 300 acres 'adjoining the lands of Captain Samuel Matthews and William Claiborne, gentleman ("Va. Mag." I. 91).'

"This was Windmill Point and there John Baynham was living in 1625. This John Baynham's daughter Mary married Richard Tisdale who succeeded to the property, and from him Captain Thomas Taylor purchased it, taking out on October 23, 1643 ("Va. Land Register," I), two patents, one calling for 350 acres including Windmill Point proper, and the other for 250 acres known as Magpy Swamp. In the first of these patents Windmill Point is described as 'butting upon Warwick River, bounded on the S. side with Potash Quarter Creek and on the N. side with Samuel Stephens his land.'

In his will the immigrant, Miles Cary, describes Windmill Point as 'the tract of land which I now reside upon,' refers to the Thomas Taylor patent and says that a resurvey shows it to include 688 acres, exclusive of Magpy Swamp. We trace the title through eight Carys to 1837 when the senior line became extinct, and Windmill Point passed to the Lucas descendants of the youngest daughter of Captain Thomas Cary, one of whom was in possession in 1851.

In 1919 the site of the original house was marked by a grassy cavity. A modern house stands nearby, the residence of J. B. Nettles who is now the owner of the small surrounding farm. The property is sometimes referred to as 'Cary's Quarter.'" (This Windmill Point must be distinguished from Sir George Yeardley's Windmill Point (originally Tobacco Point) on the south side of James River in Prince George Co.)

Pages 32-33, "The Virginia Carys."

(Warwick County was one of the eight original shires into which Virginia was divided in 1634.)

THE TOMB OF MILES CARY

"The monument was a brick altar tomb surmounted by a heavy iron stone slab, evidently carved in England. It is now in complete ruin. The inscription was preserved by at least three copies, independently made, which agree, viz: in 1844, by Mr. William Robertson, Clerk of Warwick; in 1851, by Mr. Guilford Dudley Eggleston and Mr. William B. ("Hell-cat Billy") Jones, then Clerk of Warwick; and in 1868, by Captain Wilson Miles Cary. It will be noted that, as so often is the case in respect to traditional records, the inscription contains two errors of fact: (1) Miles Cary was not the only son of John Cary of Bristol, tho at the time of his death he may have been the only surviving son; (2) Miles Cary was at the time of his death in his forty-fifth year, as appears from the following contemporary entry in the parish register of All Saint's Church, Bristol:

'The 30 January, 1622 (o. s.), was Baptized Miles, the sonne of John Cary.'

The grave is on the high bluff over the mouth of Potash Creek looking down Warwick River, in the midst of an ancient grove. In 1868, it was described as 'at the foot of a giant walnut and in the deep shade of a bower formed by the festoons of a mighty grapevine which embraces the entire grove in its snake-like folds. This description held good on April 10, 1919, when the above picture was taken, both the walnut and grapevine being extant. The brick tomb has entirely disappeared, while the slab which bore the inscription was shattered into many pieces, some of which had been carried away; but enough remains after two hundred years to clearly identify the inscription with the aid of the copies made half a century ago."

The fragments of the tomb were assembled, including the Coat of Arms which was found in the Museum at Newport News, and the tomb restored with appropriate ceremonies.

From page 57 of the "1932 Lineage Book" of Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century, who placed the bronze grave marker, we quote:

"The marker at the grave of Miles Cary, 1622-1667, was dedicated at Windmill Point, Warwick County, Virginia, on May 8, 1932. Miles Cary held many offices of trust, both civil and military distinction, and owned large tracts of land in Virginia. His grave lies within its boundaries.

Our member, Mrs. Mathesia Bell Folk Webb, was instrumental in having the grave restored and interested many influential persons in the vicinity in making the ceremony a notable occasion. The Reverend J. K. M. Lee of Newport News, officiated, and Lucius Cary of Richmond, Virginia, and P. M. Estes of Nashville, Tennessee, gave historical accounts of the Cary family. Mrs. Webb read an original poem.

Many members of local patriotic societies and descendants of Miles Cary were present."

Notices of the ceremony of marking the grave of Miles Cary appeared in many Virginia papers and in New York, perhaps in other states where the descendants of Miles Cary lived:

"Daily Press," Newport News, Tuesday, May 10, 1932:

CROWD WITNESSES CEREMONIES HELD AT ANCIENT TOMB.
ABOUT 150 AT UNVEILING OF MARKER AT GRAVE OF MILES
CARY, DISTINGUISHED COLONIST.

"Approximately 150 persons assembled Sunday afternoon at 'Windmill Point' to witness the unveiling of the marker at the tomb of Miles Cary, distinguished in early colonial history. The marker was unveiled by Mrs. J. A. Webb of New York, representing the Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century, and the flag was placed on the tomb by little Cary Warren Davis, grandson of Mrs. James Branch Cabell of Richmond, who presided at the ceremonies.

Preceding the unveiling, Mrs. Webb made a brief talk explaining the history of the Cary Coat of Arms and the genealogy of the family, which she said was a complete one, assembled for the purpose of participating in a large fortune said to be awaiting the Cary heirs in England 75 years ago.

Lucius Cary of Richmond gave an account of the Cary family both in England and in America and pointed to the sterling traits of character found from generation to generation in the family.

Permission of "The Virginia Carys"

P. M. Estes of Nashville, Tennessee, was present and made a few remarks explaining the connection between the Tennessee Carys and the Virginia Carys.

The Rev. J. K. M. Lee of this city pronounced the invocation. The ceremonies were held in the shady woods where the tomb stands but a short distance from the Warwick River and Lucas Creek.

A majority of those assembled were descendants of the Carys who came from Richmond and a few from out of the state.

Among those from a distance were many from Richmond: Mrs. Cabell, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Hunsdon Cary of 'Ampt-hill,' Lucius Cary; Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Estes, Nashville, Tenn., Mrs. J. A. Webb, New York, Mrs. Lee Brock, Washington, D. C. Williamsburg, Norfolk and other places in Virginia were represented.

The tomb was restored by the Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century with the assistance of P. M. Estes, John Cary, Fairfax Harrison and Major Gist Blair of Washington."

"In the name of God, Amen:

I, Mylles Cary of Warwick County in Virginia, being of sound and perfect memory (prayed bee God) doe make and ordain this my last will and testament, hereby renouncing all other wills or testaments formerly by me made whatsoever.

Imp: I give and bequeath my soul into the hands of Almighty God hoping through the meritte of Jesus Christ to have free remission of all my sinns: and my body to the earth with xtian buriall to be decently interred by my Loving Wife; and for that temporall estate which it hath pleased God to endow mee withall, I give and bequeath in manner and form following:

I doe give and bequeath unto my sonn Thomas Cary all that tract or parcell of land which I now reside upon, containing by the old patent, taken by my father-in-law, Thomas Taylor, deceased, three hundred and fifty acres of land, but since surveighed and received by me, 688 acres, more or less, with all that tract or parcell of land, commonly known and called by the name 'Magpy Swampe', according to a destrect pattent thereof taken by my father-in-law, Thomas Taylor, deceased, containing by said pattent two hundred and fifty acres of land, which quantity of two hundred and fifty acres of land is since joyned by mee unto another parcell of land bought by mee of Zacheriah Cripps the son of Zacheriah Cripps, deceased; yet, notwithstanding my will is that the said two hundred and fifty acres, more commonly knowne by the name of the 'Magpy Swampe,' according to the bounds of the first pattent taken up as aforesaid, be set apart and divided from the parcell of land which I bought of Zacheriah Cripps, and be and remain with the tract or parcell of land I now live upon with all the houses, aedifices, buildings, gardens, orchards, pastures, woods and underwoods, and trees growing and to bee growing, with all the rents and profits of all the leases and conveighances made out of the several tracts of land with all the hereditaments and appurtenances to any or either of the aforesaid parcells of land belonging or any way thereto appertaining unto him, the said Thomas Cary, and the heyers of his body to (be) lawfully begotten.

I doe, also, give and bequeath unto my sonn Henry Cary and unto my sonn Mylles Cary, all that tract or parcell of land which I bought of Zacheriah Cripps, being according to the Ancient Pattent taken out by Zacheriah Cripps, one thousand and fifty acres with all that tract or parcell of land taken up by mee, adjoining to that taken out of Zacheriah Cripps, but all taken into one pattent (always excepting and reserving that two hundred and fifty acres commonly knowne and called by the name of "Magpy Swampe" to the use and purpose before expressed which said tract of land according to the last surveigh and pattent (the said "Magpy Swampe" excepted) I give unto my sonne Henry Cary and unto my sonn Mylles, to be divided between them, by the runne of water which is by the great poplar in Andrew Farmer's field, being the first course marked tree of the said dividend which runne of water upwards as the main runne goeth up to the dam or ponds, my will shall be the dividing line between them. That is to say, I give and bequeath unto my sonne

Henry Cary all that tract or parcell of land, bee it more or less of this side of the ponds or dams adjourning upon the lands of Capt. Thomas Bernard, deceased, with the plantation commonly knowne and called by the name of 'The Forest,' with all the houses, aedifices, buildings, gardens, orchards, pastures, woods, underwoods and trees growing and to be growing, with all of the rents and profits of all leases and conveighances made out of the said tract or dividend of land with all the hereditaments and appurtenances to the said parcell of land any way appertaining unto him the said Henry Cary and to the heyers of his body lawfully to bee begotten.

And I give and bequeath unto my sonne Mylles Cary all that tract or parcell of land, bee it more or less, of the other side of the runnes or dams soe farr as my outward line extendeth, and along the said line, adjourning upon the lands of one Calvert and adjoining upon the lands of John Lewis, and soe along the outward line to the heade of Potash Creek, and adjoining upon the lands of Capt.: Samuel Stephens (excepting and reserving the two hundred and fifty acres of land, commonly knowne by the name of "Magpy Swampe," for the use and purpose afore expressed), with all the woods, underwoods, trees growing and to bee growing, with all hereditaments and appurtenances to the said tract or parcell of land (bee it more or less) belonging or in any way thereto appertaining unto the said Mylles Cary, and to the heyers of his body, lawfully to bee begotten.

I do give and bequeath unto my sonne William Cary all that tract or parcell of land which lyeth up Warwick River, formerly belonging unto Capt.: Thomas Flint, and since purchased by mee, with all the houses, aedifices, buildings, gardens, orchards, pastures, woods and underwoods, trees growing and to bee growing, with all the rents and profits of all leases or conveighances, made out of the said tract or parcell thereunto belonging or in any way appertaining unto him the said William Cary, and the heyers of his body to be lawfully begotten.

I give unto Roger Daniell that parcell or tract of land that Goodman Haskins now lives on, hereditaments and appurtenances whatsoever, whether by lease or otherwise, to all intents and purposes whatsoever in full and ample manner as I myself now enjoy it, may, might, or ever may enjoy it.

My desire is that Mr. William Beatty may have the education and bringing up of my sonne William and Mr. Hurle of my son Mylles in England.

My will is that my two houses in England, the one in Baldwin Street, the other in St. Nicholas Street, bee sold by Mr. Hurle and Mr. Richard Deans, and the money in Mr. Hurles hands already and the money of the said two houses soe sold to be equally divided between my three daughters, Anne, Bridgett and Elizabeth, and to continue in Mr. Hurle his hands untill their dayes of marriage; and my will is that my tobacco that goes for England this year, and the bills of Exchange, I now send home, bee also in Mr. Hurle his hands towards my sonne Mylles his education. My Plate and Rings to be equally divided between my children.

The goods in the store to be sold by my Executors, and also the housing at Towne* (which I bought of Mr. Randolph and have paid him for, as by his receipt it may appear) to be sold by my Executors and the remainder thereof, after my debts are paid, to bee equally divided amongst my children.

I give unto Anne Cary a negro girl called Nan and one boy called Harry.

I give unto Bridgett Cary one negro girl called Bridgett. To Elizabeth Cary one negro girl called Sarah. The rest of my negroes to be equally divided between my four sonnns, Thomas, Henry, Mylles and William: and what English servants I have I give unto my four sonnns Thomas, Henry, Mylles and William.

And my will further is that (whereas I have given and bequeathed unto my four sonnes Thomas, Henry, Mylles and William, several tracts and parcells of land, as, by foregoing clause in this Will, may and doeth appear) if any of the said Thomas, Henry, Mylles and William Cary shall happen to depart this natural life without heyers of his body lawfully begotten, that then his land goe and pass unto the next heirs or brother, viz: if Thomas Cary should happen to dy without issue of his body lawfully begotten, then his land to descend to the next brother Henry: and if Henry dy without issue of his body lawfully begotten, his land to descend to Mylles Cary; and if Mylles Cary dy without issue of his body lawfully begotten, his land to descend to William Cary; and if William Cary dy without issue of his body lawfully begotten, then his lands and the other tracts soe falling to him, pass and descend to my three daughters, Ann, Bridgett and Elizabeth.

*This was Colonel Miles Cary's compliance with the insistence of the English government that the Virginians should live in towns. Soon after he was advanced to the Council, Miles Cary joined with Colonel Thomas Swann and Secretary Ludwell in acquiring the "old state house" at Jamestown and its adjoining buildings, then in ruins. There is a picture of the block restored in "Tyler's Cradle of the Republic," 167. Colonel Cary's "housing" was the middle one. The anxiety to dispose of it immediately after his death shows in what esteem a house at Jamestown was then held either as a convenience or an investment.

My will is that my debts be equally paid by my Executors, hereafter to be named, before any division or diminution of my Estate and that no division be made but by the joynt consent of my Executors, hereafter to be named, provided that my Executors be all alive at the time of division, and, (in) the Colony of Virginia—that is to say, so many of Executors as are to be had (but) that no division be made untill my eldest sonne come of age.

My will further is that when division is made, that my Loving friend, Mr. William Beatty have and keep in his possession my sonne William's Estate, and keep it for my said sonne William's use until he shall accomplish the age of one and twenty. My said Sonne's maintenance for his education only to be deducted. And that the said Mr. William Beatty have my sonne Mylles Cary's part also of my Estate to possess and keep for the said Mylles Cary his use and behoof until the said Mylles Cary shall accomplish the age of one and twenty. My will is that Henry Cary, when the Estate is divided, have his part and share of my Estate in his own possession as also his land, formerly bequeathed to him in his own possession not-withstanding he bee not of full age.

As for my three daughter's parts or shares of my Estate (when divided) my will is, that those guardians (whom my said daughters shall choose) with the consent of Executors, shall take it into their care and custody for the proper and sole use of my said daughters until they or any of them shall accomplish the age of one and twenty, or dayes of marriage (their maintenance only excepted) that is each or any one of the said daughters to have her part or share as she accomplish the age of one and twenty or marryeth.

I do hereby nominate and appoint my four sonnes, Thomas, Henry, Mylles and William Cary and my three daughters, Anne, Bridgett and Elizabeth Cary my joynt Executors and Executrices of this my last Will and Testament, with strict charge that they agree and act with mutual love and amity.

I doe also hereby, nominate and appoint my well-beloved friends, Mr. Thomas Ludwell, Col^o Nath: Bacon, Major Edwards Griffith and Mr. William Beaty my Executors of this my last Will and Testament, earnestly requesting them to take the said charge and care upon them. And in token of my love to my said Executors I doe hereby give and bequeath to each of them five pounds sterling.

In Witness whereof I have set my hand and seal to each syde and part of this my last Will and Testament, this ninth day of June 1667.

II HENRY⁶ CARY (MILES⁵, JOHN⁴, WILLIAM³, RICHARD², WILLIAM¹ CARY), b. 1650(?); d. 1720; of "The Forest" (named for his Hobson grandfather, Henry, who was the father of Alice Hobson, mother of Miles Cary, the immigrant). He was devisee under his father's will of the Warwick plantation called "The Forest," being the western half of Zachary Cripps' patent, adjoining "Richneck." He was Justice of the Peace and Captain for Warwick.

He was contracting builder and constructed, among other public buildings, the court-house of York County, 1694 (York

(See "Hening," III, 226, 485; IV, 95; "Col. Va. State Papers," I, 125, 146.)

His petition, last cited, is interesting evidence that bricks were burnt in Virginia as early as 1709, not imported as the tradition is in respect to so many eighteenth century houses.* It is not known where he was buried. Md. by May 24, 1671, Judith, dau. of Edward Locky, Jr., of York, merchant. Judith Locky wife of Henry Cary, dau. of Edward Locky, 1671, as Isaac Collier was dead and William Carter was absent and supposed to be dead, the General Court ordered that Judith Locky, who had married Henry Cary, should have the legacies left Collier and Carter, "land excepted which is adjudged to the brother of said Isaac Collier" (General Court Records, MSS.). There is evidence at once of the fact and the date of the marriage in a recital of it in proceedings in the General Court, May 24, 1671, for the settlement of the estate of Edward Locky, Sr. ("Minutes of the Council and General Court of Colonial Virginia," page 258.)

"The Lockys were London merchants resident in Virginia in the tobacco trade. Edward Locky, Jr. was nephew of Edward Locky, Sr., and son of John Locky of St. Botolph's Aldgate, London, grocer who died in Virginia." (See "P. C. C. Admon. Act Book," Feb. 27, 1666, and "W. and M. Quar." III, 278, VIII, 202, 225; p. 86, "The Virginia Carys.")

Children:

- 1 Judith⁷, b. 1673(?); d. ante 1716; md. Major William Barbar of York. (For the Barbar family see "W. & M. Quar.," V, p. 195.) Judith Barbar is mentioned in the will of Henry Cary as "my late daughter." (The name is also spelled Barber in some records.)
- 2 Anne⁷, b. 1674(?); md. post 1693 to — Stuckey (see the will 1693 of Benjamin Reade in York records, leaving legacy to "niece Anne Cary, daughter of Mr.

*"Bricks were burnt in Virginia from the earliest time." M.H.

Henry Cary") ("W. & M. Quar.," III, 40). Anne Locky, sister of the wife of Henry Cary married a Reade, presumably Thomas Reade (see Bruton parish register, 1712), who may have been the brother of this testator, Benjamin Reade; in that case Benjamin might have called himself Anne Cary's uncle because his brother had married her aunt. In any event the Oxford dictionary gives examples of the use of "niece" in the general sense of kinswoman. Anne Cary is Anne Stuckey in her father's will which is the only evidence for the marriage. Her husband has not been identified.

- 3 HENRY⁷ CARY, b. 1675(?) of Williamsburg, Va. (of whom further).

- 4 Elizabeth⁷ Cary, b. 1678(?); md. 1698 (?) to Captain John Scarisbrook.

This John Scarisbrook, or Scarsbrooke, as the name came to be spelled in Virginia, was captain of a merchant ship in service between Virginia and Liverpool and son of Lieutenant-Colonel John Scarisbrook of York, merchant (See "W. & M. Quar." XXIV, p. 200). The Scarisbrooks are an ancient family of Lancashire. In the seventeenth century a branch of them were merchants in Liverpool ("Victoria County History Lancashire," III, 265). It seems probable then that the Virginia family were of the Liverpool Scarisbrooks. Three of the children of the immigrant Lieutenant-Colonel John Scarisbrook of York married descendants of the immigrant Miles Cary (Viz: Martha, md. William Cary, Captain John supra, and Hannah md. Captain Miles Wills.)

- 5 Miles⁷, b. 1680(?); d. post 1716 o. s. p. (There is no record of him except in his father's will where he is named as a legatee, but not as an Executor. He must have died unmarried.)

"In the name of God, Amen: I, Henry Cary, of the County of Warwick, being sick in body but of sound and perfect mind and memory, Praise be given to Almighty God for the same, do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following:

And first: I recommend my soul into the hands of Almighty God beseeching him to grant me full remission and pardon for all my sins, by the merits and for the sake of my most blessed Saviour and Redeemer, Christ Jesus, and by whom I hope to inherit a joyful resurrection.

And as for that worldly estate which it hath pleased God to bestow upon me, I give and bequeath the same in manner and form foll'g, hereby revoking and making void all former wills by me heretofore made, and declaring this to be my last Will and Testament.

2dly: I will and ordain that all my just debts and funeral charges be paid and discharged by my executor hereafter named, and after my debts and funeralls are so paid and discharged, as aforesaid, my will and desire is that all the remainder of my personal estate of what kind soever, as negroes, stock, household goods, money, tobacco, or anything else, be equally divided between my son Henry Cary, Miles Cary, my daughter Anne Stuckey, my daughter Elizabeth Scarisbrooke, and my late daughter Judith Barbar's two sons, Thomas Barbar and William Barbar, except my negro girl named Rachel, whom I give and bequeath to my son Henry Cary and his heirs forever.

"THE FOREST" AND "AMPTHILL"

"The immigrant's second son, Captain Henry Cary, the builder, inherited and lived upon the plantation in the interior of Warwick, known as 'The Forest.' His enterprising son, of the same name, was one of the pioneers to take up wilderness lands in the upper valley of James River, and, removing his own residence to the head of navigation near the Falls, where the city of Richmond was soon to grow, there built Ampthill House.

Ampthill House, built by Henry Cary in 1732, still (1919) stands on the brim of the river valley about seven miles below Manchester, on the Richmond-Petersburg turnpike. It looks over a characteristic James River bottom which yields bountiful crops of corn, now cultivated by a single tractor instead of a troop of negroes. Some distance downstream, but within sight of the house, is the skeleton of the mill which was erected during the nineteenth century on the foundation of that of the eighteenth. Across the river, on the Henrico shore, is the Randolph place, 'Wilton.' While lacking repair, the house is a notable example of Henry Cary's Flemish bond brickwork, substantial timbering and oak paneling. Except 'Elmwood,' it is the only Virginia house extant which was inhabited by the immigrant Miles Cary's family in the eighteenth century. For a century past it has been owned by the families of Temple and Watkins, who crowd the two graveyards on the place.

This 'Ampthill' was apparently named, immediately, for a plantation of that name in Warwick which belonged to Henry Cary and afterwards to Miles Cary of 'Peartree Hall'; this in turn was undoubtedly named by some former owner, doubtless a Bedfordshire man who brought with him to Virginia memories of the royal manor, famous for its park of ancient oaks, and the fact that there the repudiated Queen Katherine of Aragon lived while her divorce was pending (cf. Shakespeare Henry VIII, act IV, sc. I.). The English Ampthill now belongs to the family of Russell, Dukes of Bedford, one of whom has derived from it the title by which he is known. There is another Ampthill in Virginia, the house built about 1790, on some of Archibald Cary's lands in Cumberland, by Randolph Harrison (pps. 85-88, "The Virginia Carys")."

(Since the above description of "Ampthill" was written, the place has been sold (1927) to the DuPonts, who have a factory located there. The house itself was given to Mr. Hunsdon Cary, who moved it intact to another site on the James River where he and his family now live. The wall paneling is just the same; rooms, as they formerly were. The only change made was in the connection or galleries between the ball room and the house; also, between the kitchen and the house. M.F.W. 1932.)

THE REBIRTH OF OLD SOUTHERN MANSIONS

"Another old house which has very lately been restored is Ampthill, seat of Archibald Cary who was the son of Henry Cary, a mighty builder in Williamsburg, and it was Henry who built Ampthill around 1730 or about the same time that William Byrd built Westover. Ampthill used to stand in Chesterfield County, opposite Richmond, near where the historic Appomattox joins the James. Just across the river still stands "Wilton," a seat of the Randolphs, not quite so old.

The site of Ampthill is now a factory for rayons. By the courtesy of the DuPonts, who bought the land for the factory, the old house was presented to Hunsdon Cary, a lawyer of Richmond and a descendant of another son of Henry Cary, Miles by name.

Hunsdon Cary has reerected the old house, brick by brick, on a hill overlooking the James River, on the other side, above Richmond. In the transfer he has preserved extraordinarily well the character of the mansion with its checkerwork of glazed headers in the walls, typical of all the Tidewater architecture of the middle of the eighteenth century and the interior full dress of severely simple paneling of the hall and the great rooms on the lower floor.

The principal liberties taken are the connecting up with 'hyphens' of the solid square wings which were detached as at 'Carter's Grove,' one of them being a grand ballroom and the other a kitchen, and the ingenious insertion in the thickness of one of the great chimneys of a private stairway."

"Educated at William and Mary College, one of its earliest students. He carried on his father's business as a contracting builder and constructed the Brafferton Building, 1732 (probably), and (certainly) the President's house and the chapel of William and Mary College, 1729-1732 ("W. & M. Quar." I, p. 137; XI, p. 174),* as well as a number of churches and court houses, among others, St. Paul's, Hanover, 1719, and St. John's, Hampton, 1727 ("W. & M. Quar." XX, p. 170) ("Tyler's Cradle of the Republic," p. 250).

"In this construction of public buildings he was more fortunate than his father, as much of his work still stands to testify to his art, while successive fires have destroyed all identifiable monuments of his father."

"He was Justice of the Peace in Warwick Co. as late as 1727, but had moved to Williamsburg after his father's death and there was vestryman of Bruton Church." ("W. & M. Quar." III, p. 175-180), and in 1726, Keeper of the Magazines. In 1730 he docked the entail and sold 'The Forest' to Colonel Wilson Cary of 'Richneck' (Hening IV, 307; VII, 440), acquiring in lieu of it 12,000 acres on Willis Creek,

*The building of the Chapel of William and Mary College was awarded to Henry Cary, father of Archibald and Judith Cary, and the original contract signed by him was preserved at the college until a few years ago when it disappeared suddenly ("W. and M. Quar.," Vol. XI, p. 175).

then in Henrico (afterwards Goochland and Cumberland and Buckingham). In 1736 he purchased from William Byrd 306 acres at the mouth of Falling Creek in Henrico (afterwards Chesterfield), and there on the upland established a flouring mill about which grew up a village which he called 'Warwick.' He had removed his residence to Henrico in 1727 and, though he lived later at 'Amphill,' usually described himself thenceforth as 'of Warwick,' or 'of the Parish of Dale.'

In 1733-34 he was High Sheriff of Henrico. He was doubtless buried at 'Amphill,' but no stone marks his grave. Many of his descendants, Bells, Randolphs, Pages, Harrisons were long seated on his lands in Cumberland and Buckingham Counties. (Buckingham Co. was cut off from Albemarle Co. in 1761)."

- 2 Doyley^s, b. 1712; d. ante 1734, o. s. p.

The name Doyley is a puzzle.

The Rev. Cope Doyley was incumbent of Hampton (Elizabeth City) 1687-1697, and of Bruton (Williamsburg) 1697-1702, when he died ("Bishop Meade," I, 231, 149).

He left young sons, Charles and Cope, who on their father's death were committed to the care of Henry Tyler, Sheriff of York, because they had no relations in Virginia. (See "York, O. B." September 24, 1702; "Va. Mag." XIII, 300.) Cope Doyley was a landowner in Warwick (Quit Rent Rolls, 1704), and it is probable that Henry Cary or his Sclater wife had affectionate relations with him, but it does not appear why they should name for him their eldest son, born ten years after Mr. Doyley's death. Doyley Cary was witness to a deed from Richard Page to John Blair, dated July 31, 1730, which was recorded in York, then disappeared.

- 3 Henry^s Cary, b. Nov. 3, 1714; d. 1734, o. s. p.

(The younger brother Henry died 1734, leaving a will bequeathing his property to his father, and his father's will names the two slaves which the Rev. James Sclater had bequeathed to Doyley and Henry, with remainder to the survivor, thus indicating what was the property his son Henry had to leave and his survivorship of his brother.)

("The Ampthill" Bible has an entry in the hand of Archibald Cary: "Henry Cary, father of Archibald Cary, had by his first wife a daughter and two sons, who died before they came of age, viz, Doyley Cary, b. July 3, 1712, and Henry Cary, b. Nov. 3, 1714." The will of the Rev. James Sclater, dated 1721, gives the clew to the name of the first wife in legacies to his two Cary grandsons.)

James Sclater was incumbent of Charles (formerly Pocoseon) Parish in York County from 1686 to 1724. His children are enumerated in the parish register. In the lack of other records it appears from the known marriages of the other daughters that Henry Cary's wife was the fourth child, Sarah. Col. John Cary of Back River and his son, Capt. Miles Cary of Campbell, both married Sclaters of this family ("The Virginia Carys," pages 88-89).

HENRY⁷ Cary, md. (2) 1719 Anne Edwards (daughter of John Edwards of Surry); b. —; d. about 1740.

Henry Cary testified by his entry in the "Ampthill" Bible that his second wife was Anne Edwards. The evidence for the foregoing identification of the mother of Col. Archibald Cary, establishes his kinship with the Revolutionary colleague, Benjamin Harrison, in the will of John Edwards, dated Aug. 12, 1712, and proved May 20, 1713 ("Surry Will Book," V, 147), naming with other children his third son Benjamin and his daughter Anne, then unmarried; followed by the will of this Benjamin Edwards, dated Nov. 6, 1721, and proved Nov. 21, 1722 ("Surry Will Book," VI, 422), the witnesses to which are Anne Cary, Henry Cary and Dr. Archibald Blair, evidently Benjamin Edward's sister, brother-in-law and physician.

John Edwards and William his brother, who was Clerk of the General Court in 1688 and afterwards of the Council, were the third generation of a family of ancient planters, the first of whom was before 1624 seated in Surry where they still persist.

(See Keith, "Ancestry of Benjamin Harrison," 50 and "W. & M. Quar.," XV, 79.)

Children:

- 4 Anne^s, b. 1720; d. infant. (She was buried in Bruton Church, 1720.)
- 5 Archibald^s, b. 1721 of "Ampthill." (For complete record see "The Virginia Carys.") Being a prominent citizen of that day and a brother to Judith Cary, we give a short sketch of him. (See pages 53-57.)
- 6 JUDITH^s Cary, b. August 12, 1726; d. April 16, 1798; md. 1744, David Bell of "Belmont" on the James River in Buckingham Co. (This marriage spread the Cary blood and name among a numerous progeny; Gists, Blairs, Langhorne, Harrisons, Estes, Folks, Rice and their descendants, who settled in Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Maryland and other states.) (Of whom further.)
- 7 Sarah^s Cary, b. 1729; md. 1748 to Alexander Spiers. (Alexander Spiers was a Scotch merchant and returned to his home in Glasgow in 1750, taking his wife with him. She never returned to Virginia but is reputed to have died, s. p.)

HENRY⁷ Cary, md. (3), Elizabeth Brickenhead in 1741(?) s. p. She survived her husband and was living in Williamsburg in 1750 when she made a will which was proved in Chesterfield, October 10, 1751 ("Will Book," I, page 149). By this she left legacies to "Mrs. Judith Bell," "Mrs. Sarah Spiers," "Anne, daughter of Archibald Cary," and the bulk of her property to "John Brickenhead, Peruke maker in Old Street, near St. Luke's Church, London." (This last may be a clue to her maiden name of which no definite record remains.)

"In the name of God, Amen, I, Henry Cary of the Parish of Dale in the County of Henrico, being at this time of perfect, Sound and disposing Mind and Memory, Thanks be to Almighty God and withal considering the Certainty of Death and the uncertainty of that great and important Change, do make and ordain this my Last Will and Testament in Manner and Form following:—

Impress: I recommend my soul to Almighty God in a well grounded Hope and confidence that through the Fullness of His Mercy and the Merits of His Son, I shall stand at the Resurrection on His Right Hand and My Body I commit to the care of my Executor hereinafter named to be by him decently interred at his Discretion.

Item, whereas, by a certain contract of Marriage entered into with my loving wife, Elizabeth Cary before espousals, I engaged to leave her one thousand pounds sterling money to be paid her in case she should Survive me, by my Executors in lieu of and in full compensation of dower, I do, therefore, give and bequeath unto my said wife, Elizabeth Cary, the said sum of one thousand pounds Sterling to be paid her by my Executor in lieu of and in full compensation of her Dower.

I, further more, give and bequeath unto my wife Elizabeth the sum of two hundred and twenty pounds Curr't Money to be paid her by my Executor within one year after my Decease being in Consideration of the like Sum by me heretofore received for the sale of her house in the city of Williamsburgh. I, further, lend my wife, Elizabeth Cary the use of all household goods and Plats I rec'd with her in Marriage that shall be found at the time of my Decease to enjoy the same during her natural life and after her Decease the same to return to my son Archibald Cary, my heir at law. I, likewise, give to my wife, Elizabeth Cary, a Negro Man Slave named James, which I received with her in Marriage to be her absolute property and at her disposal, I, also, lend my said wife Elizabeth Cary the use of my Negro wench, named Flora, during the natural life.

Item: Whereas, in Consideration of a Marriage heretofore had and Solemnized between David Bell and my Daughter Judith, I have put the said David Bell in the Enjoyment and possession of three thousand acres of land situate lying and being upon Hatchers Creek in the County of Albemarle being part of a larger tract, as also, of the following slaves, to wit (15, naming them) together with all the stock of hogs, cattle, horses, mares, utensils of husbandry and all other materials upon the said plantation at the time I so put him in Possession thereof, all the singular and the said land and tenements, goods, chattles to hold and enure to the said David Bell and his wife, my daughter Judith, and the heirs of her body under the conditions, limitations and resolutions hereinafter expressed to wit: (Will next makes special and generous provision for grandson, Henry Bell, being only grandchild mentioned).

Item: I give and bequeath to my son-in-law, Alexander Spiers, Three thousand acres of land now in his possession, the boundary line whereof to begin at my upper line above Stills Quarter, etc. Also, slaves, cattle, horses, etc., including a negro wench named Sarah and a negro girl named Nell, which two negroes my daughter Sarah, now wife of the said Alexander Spiers took into her care and possession at the time of her marriage.

Item: I do give and bequeath unto my son Archibald Cary all the residue of my estate both real and personal of what nature and quality soever and wheresoever lying, found or dispensed, he paying all my legacies and just debts."

Also makes Archibald his executor. Executed May 27, 1748.

ARCHIBALD CARY

Archibald Cary of "Amphill," in the County of Chesterfield, has a will recorded in Will Book 4, page 420, Chesterfield County.

It is dated Feb. 12, 1787, and has two or more codicils dated Feb. 19 and 21, 1787. An inventory and appraisement of his estate was filed April 17, 1787.

ARCHIBALD⁸ CARY (*Henry*⁷, *Henry*⁶, *Miles*⁵, *John*⁴, *William*³, *Richard*², *William*¹), b. 1721, d. 1787; of "Amphill" in Chesterfield County. He was a brother of Judith Cary (who married David Bell through whom we trace our lineage). Archibald Cary, collateral to our line, was a most prominent citizen of his day, and his marriage to Mary Randolph, a descendant of Pocohontas, may be interesting to many readers. We give a brief history of him. The complete history is recorded in "The Virginia Carys," pages 91-95, and in "Archibald Cary of 'Ampt-hill,' Wheelhorse of the Revolution," by Robert K. Brock (8vo. Richmond, Va. 1937; a biography).

"Born in Williamsburg, he was probably named for his father's friend and physician, Dr. Archibald Blair, though not of kin. He was educated at William and Mary College. When he came of age in 1742 his father vested him with the property known as Buckingham, 4,132 acres of land on Willis Creek, then in Goochland (Deed Book, IV, 95, and Hening, VII, 440), and there he entered public life. He was Justice of Peace 1747 and sat as a Burgess for Goochland 1748-49. On the organization of Cumberland County in 1749 to include his lands, he was in the first Commission of the Peace and a vestryman of St. James, Southam parish. Later, in 1750, he became of Ampt-hill on his father's death and removed to Chesterfield. He extended his father's manufacturing interests, maintained the flouring mills at Warwick, established a ropery, developed the deposits of limonite iron ore on his lands in Buckingham, and set up a furnace and foundry at Falling Creek, where in 1622 the first such venture had been made in the colony. (Brock, Va. His. Soc. Collections, VII, 51, says that in 1876 he identified the sites of both furnaces, that of 1622 as well as that of 1760, by remnants of slag in the soil.)

In local community affairs he was progressive; as Justice of Peace (long Presiding Magistrate and County Lieutenant) he advocated the construction of roads and bridges; privately he imported pure-bred cattle, which found their way into the valley of Virginia and in time into Kentucky, carrying with them the name 'Cary's stock' (W. M. Quar., XXVI, 167). An uncompromising member of the Established Church, as a magistrate he prosecuted the Baptists ('Va. Mag.,' XI, 416); and after disestablishment was with his kinsmen, Colonel Wilson-Miles Cary and Judge Richard Cary, a delegate to the convention of 1785 which organized the incorporated Episcopal Church of Virginia. In 1756 he succeeded to the seat in the Assembly for Chesterfield, and at once took active part in the organization of the colony against the French invasion then expected. Thenceforth, until his death, he represented Chesterfield continuously. By 1762 he had taken the place in the Assembly of his great-uncle, Miles Cary, being Chairman of the Committee of Public Claims, a post he held during the remainder of the colonial period. In 1764 he was one of the committee of nine which prepared the memorials to the King and Lords and Commons against Grenville's determination to impose stamp taxes, but, in 1765 he voted with the conservatives against Patrick Henry's fiery resolutions.

He took a leading role in the Revolution of Virginia; he signed the Associations of 1769, 1770 and 1774; in 1773 he became a member of the Committee of Correspondence and was in all the Conventions of 1775. In the Convention of 1776 he was Chairman of the Committees, so that 'it was from his lips that the words of the resolution of independance, of the declaration of rights, and of the first constitution of Virginia first fell upon the public ear.' At home he was Chairman also of the county Committee of Safety for Chesterfield ('W. & M. Quar.,' V, 102). On the organization of the State government he became Speaker of the Senate and died holding that office. He had subscribed liberally to the Revolution in money as well as in influence. Thus in January 1781 he calls the Governor's attention ('Col. Va. State Papers,' I, 4,710) to the fact that there is due him by government lbs. 40,000 on one account and lbs. 18,000 'for my propositions towards raising the 3,000 men.' While these figures were in Virginia depreciated currency, not sterling, they represented large values. In this situation, on April 30 of the year, his mills at 'Warwick' and 'Falling Creek' were destroyed by Benedict Arnold. (See Arnold's report of May 12, 1781, to Sir Henry Clinton, in 'Tarleton Campaigns in North America, 1781,' 337.) Although a large landholder (according to the land and tax books, he died seized of 2,180 acres in Chesterfield, with 36 slaves; 4,992 acres in Cumberland with 189 slaves and 7,000 acres in Buckingham with 41 slaves), yet, as a consequence of his sacrifices, he found himself in straitened circumstances at the end of his life.

By tradition he is called 'Old Iron,' but whether with reference to his furnace or his character does not appear. He had indeed developed a peremptory disposition, as witness his celebrated message to Patrick Henry in 1776 [Wirt, 'Life of Patrick Henry (1836),' 223], and the subsequent description of him as the 'Old Bruiser' [Rowland, 'George Mason,' I, 334; Greene, 'Nathaniel Greene (1871),'

III, 506.]; but, on the other hand, General Washington, though eleven years his junior, maintained an affectionate relation with him, calling him 'Archy' (Ford, 'Writings of Washington,' II, 428). His courtesy and genial hospitality were a part of him.

His reputation being confined to Virginia, the immediate memorial of his fame was his name, given to a street in Richmond. No stone marks his grave; indeed, the place of burial is not known. Tradition has it that he was buried in the cellar of 'Amphill' House, where his 'hant' is still seen by the negroes. (See the eloquent appreciation in 'Grigsby's Virginia Convention of 1776,' 90, and a brief notice in 'Appleton's Cyclo. Am. Biog.,' I, 548.) His correspondence and personal papers were destroyed, so that material is lacking for a 'Life.' There is in existence a pleasant portrait of him by the elder Peale (pages 91-92, 'Va. Carys'). Married 1744, Mary Randolph, b. 1727; d. 1781, dau. of Col. Richard Randolph of 'Curles.' "

Children:

- 1 Anne⁹, b. 1745; d. 1789; md. Col. Thomas Mann Randolph, b. 1741; d. 1794, "Tuckahoe."
- 2 Mary⁹, b. 1747; d. infans.
- 3 Jane⁹, b. 1751; d. 1774; md. 1767 to Thomas Isham Randolph of "Ben Lomond" in Goochland, son of Isham Randolph of "Dungeness."

(From this marriage descended the Harrisons of "Clifton" and the Hutchinsons of St. Louis, Missouri. It was the older sister of this Thomas Isham Randolph who was the mother of Thomas Jefferson. (See "W. & M. Quar.," VIII, 122, 263.)

- 4 Sarah⁹, 1753-1773; md. Archibald Bolling of Goochland, a younger son of the second John Bolling of Cobbs, and a grandson of Archibald Blair. Sally Cary was the first of his four wives. (See the notice of him in Robertson's "Pocahontas and Her Descendants".)
- 5 ELIZA⁹, d. —. Infans.
- 6 Henry⁹, b. 1757; d. 1758.
- 7 Mary⁹, b. 1766-1797; md. 1782 to Major Carter Page of "The Fork," Cumberland County. (For the descendants of this marriage and Dr. Mann Pages's correspondence about the "Cary fortune" see "Page Genealogy of the Page Family, 1893," pages 108 and 120. Most of the "Amphill" heirlooms passed to the Pages.)

- 8 Elizabeth⁹, 1770(?); md. 1787 to Robert Kincaid of Manchester. (This Elizabeth, or Betsy, was not entered in the Ampthill Bible. After her mother's death and the marriage of her next older sister she assumed, though still a child, the management of her father's household and thereby won his warm affection, as appears by his will. The codicils disclose, however, that her father strongly disapproved of her intended marriage to Robert Kincaid and sought to prevent it. A notice in the "Virginia Gazette" shows that the marriage took place a few weeks after Colonel Archibald Cary's death. There were Kincaid and Irving descendants.)

NOTE: At the death of Colonel Archibald Cary of Ampthill, the male line of the second son of the immigrant became extinct, but the descendants of the marriage of his granddaughter, Virginia Randolph, dau. of Thomas Mann Randolph of Tuckahoe, with Wilson Jefferson Cary of Carysbrook, carries on the blood of this line in the Cary name (pages 91, 95 "The Va. Carys.")

Miss Annebel Moore,
Brownsville, Tennessee.

Dear Miss Moore:

I have just seen a record of a deed in 1779 from Henry Bell of the county of Buckingham and Parish of Tillotson to his brother, David Bell of the same county and Parish, conveying 1,000 acres of land in this (Bedford) County.

The deed is witnessed by "Daniel Bates," "Eliza^a Bates" and "Judith Cary Bell."

The circumstances show affiliation between the Bell, Bates and Cary families.

The city of Lynchburg is in Campbell County and this Co. was cut off from Bedford Co. in 1782. The land conveyed by the deed referred to is in Campbell Co.

. . . David Bell married Judith Cary. Their daughter Sarah, married Mr. John Maurice Langhorne.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) R. D. Buford"

"Nashville, Tennessee, June 4, 1919

My dear May:

I am sending you under separate cover, copy of the Will of Henry Cary who lived at 'Amphill,' six miles below Richmond, on the James River, in what is now Chesterfield County. This building is still standing and is a very handsome one and in good condition. It was built in 1732.

Henry Cary was the father of Archibald and Judith Cary. The picture of Archibald Cary and his wife (Mary Randolph), painted by Copley, is in the Governor's mansion at Richmond, Va. The picture of Judith Cary, also painted by Copley, is in the Francis Preston Blair residence on Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C. This historic residence is now occupied by Major Gist Blair. His grandmother, Elizabeth Violet Gist, was a granddaughter of Judith Cary. She married Francis Preston Blair (a very prominent man in the day of Andrew Jackson) who was the father of Francis Preston Blair, Jr., of Missouri, and of Montgomery Blair, Postmaster General in Lincoln's cabinet. Major Gist Blair is the son of Montgomery Blair, and the Blairs are very prominent, wealthy and influential people in Washington.

I note that the books speak of Dr. David Bell of Lynchburg, Va. I do not know of any reason to suppose that he ever lived at Lynchburg. His residence (called 'Belmont') still stands in Buckingham County, about 20 miles east of Lynchburg.

Judith Cary Bell was born August 12, 1726, and died April 16, 1798. The date when she married could doubtless be ascertained from the parish registers of Henrico County which cover the period 1611-1904, which registers are now at the Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Va.

(Later see record of marriage in 1744, recorded at Theo. Sem. in Alexandria, Va. M.F.W.)

Her oldest child, Henry Bell, was born Nov. 11, 1745, and married Rebecca Harrison, June 12, 1773. The facts as to the birth and death of Judith Cary Bell are taken from the Bible of Henry Bell, which recites that he was born in Chesterfield County, which at the time of his birth was Henrico Co. However at a later date he also lived in Buckingham County.

All of the printed books give the children of David and Judith Cary Bell, amongst others a daughter by the name of Elizabeth, but the books only stated as to her that she married Daniel Bates and did not give the names of any of their children.

I searched for a considerable time before I found this record at the Court House in Chesterfield Co., Va.

I found a deed recorded in Deed Book XIV, page 408, the copy of which I enclose under separate cover, that shows that his name was Daniel Bates and that his wife was Elizabeth and that he had two daughters, Elizabeth Bell and Sarah Langhorne Bell (who married Joel Estes, our ancestor). In Deed Book XIII, page 449, I found recorded another contract, reciting that 'Whereas, a marriage is shortly to take place between the said John Friend and Judith Cary Bates, daughter of said Daniel Bates.'

The contract mentions certain slaves and interests in the land to John Friend and reference to Elizabeth Bates as the wife of Daniel Bates. This date is May 21, 1796. There were numerous other deeds between Daniel Bates and other parties.

Elizabeth Bell Bates married Dutcy Porter and Sarah Langhorne Bates married Joel Estes, October 13, 1801. I have found the original certificate of this marriage signed by the minister, who was a Baptist.

There are also deeds on record that show that after the death of Daniel Bates, which occurred about 1801, his widow, Elizabeth Bates, moved to Bourbon Co., Ky. and was living there in 1806.

In Chesterfield County, Va., there are also on record deeds executed by Joel Estes and his wife, Sarah Langhorne Bates, conveying interest in property in Chesterfield Co., Va., to Dutcy Porter and others.

Judith Cary Bell had a daughter named Sarah who married a Mr. John Maurice Langhorne, so Sarah Langhorne Bates was named for her aunt. You will notice the recurrence of the names, Elizabeth and Sarah.

Trusting you may find all of the above of interest, I am,
Your cousin,
P. M. Estes"

THE "ESTES"

From the New York Watchman

"Dr. Deems:

In reading your paper some time since, I noticed some verses by Mr. Alston Bacon Estes. The name recalled some recollections of researches, undertaken by my father many years ago, when, becoming interested in the family, he sought to trace its history, which is both curious and interesting. Thinking you might be pleased to know it I give it in a few words as possible."

(Signed) Richard Taylor, M.D.

"About the year 1097, Albert Azo II, Marquis of Liguria, died and his history is commensurate with the lapse of the eleventh century; his is the acknowledged founder of the Houses of both Este and Brunswick; the former were conspicuous in Italy as late as the middle of the eighteenth century when their direct line failed in the death of Hercules III, he being in the twenty-second generation from Azo II; the latter (House of Brunswick) after centuries of time emerge from their quiet stations of Dukes of Brunswick and Hanover and occupy the most prominent positions in Europe as the British Kings.

One branch, however, of the Italian family exist in America. The Marquis Aldobrandino, about the beginning of the fourteenth century, in order to procure means for prosecuting a war against the Anconites, hypotheated his youngest brother to the usurers of Florence. The untimely death of the Marquis put an end to the war and left his brother unredeemed. These were the sons of Azo VI. The younger brother did not return to his ancestral home on the accession of the seventh Azo, but proceeded to France, thence to England where he became acquainted and connected with the family of Lord Bacon. The family then moved from England to Wales, always maintaining a position of influence and respectability, inheriting the distinguishing traits of character and talents possessed by their ancestors.

From Wales they emigrated to Virginia. . . .

In the strife between the Guelphs and Ghibelline factions in Italy, the Estes always headed the Guelphs and were always considered the leaders of that party, until the defeat and overthrow of the Ghibellines and their leader, the Black Eccelin, by the seventh Azo in the battle of Brescia. The reigning family of England derive their name from the following circumstances: Azo II married Cunegonda, the daughter of a German Prince whom the Emperor Henry III invested with the duchy of Carinthia and Marquis of Verona; to commemorate the deeds of his maternal ancestors, the son of Azo and Cunegonda was given the name of Guelph which they retain to the present day.

The name of Este is derived from a colony planted in the seventh century of Rome, about fifteen miles to the south of the city of Padua and called by them Ateste (or Adeste) a name known in history 136 years before Christ., or Este which last name the Marquises of Liguria assumed in the beginning of the fourteenth century, namely: Marquis of Este and their descendants have ever since assumed the name of Este.

The name written Estes is plural and is used to represent the whole family; thus Byron in his "Parisina" speaks of the Estes;

'And if she sits in Este's bower

'tis not for the sake of the full-blown flower.'

Or it is meant to convey, something as above, belonging to the family. Thus the name is more frequently written Estes than as it should be, Este.

You will see by the foregoing that the name Estes represents a family, one of the oldest and also most illustrious living in the world.

I have written this more to acquaint you with an interesting history, as a journalist should know everything, than for any other purpose; and, though short, it will give you an inkling of the history of the American Estes and show you that the 'antique blood of Este' is still in existence" (pages vi-viii "Introduction of Estes Genealogies 1097-1893, by Chas. Estes").

PERTAINING TO THE ESTE FAMILY IN FERRARA, ITALY

(Excerpts from "Gerusalemme Liberata," by Tasso; Translated by Edward Fairfax, Canto XVII, Stanzas 64-69; pages 347, 356, 437.)

*"The Hermit said, look up my child
And painted in this precious shield behold
The glorious deeds of thy forefathers bold
And pedigree of all the House of Est."*

(Through five pages the praises run until he reached the climax)

"To thee I say, 'was never race Greek, barbarian or Latine, Great in time past or famous at this day,

*Richer in hardy knights than this of thine;
Such blessings Heaven shall on thy children lay
That they in fame shall pass, in praise o'ercome
The worthies old of Sparta, Carthage, Rome.*

*A branch of Est there in the Guelfian tree
Engrafted was, which of itself was old,
Whereon you might the Guelfos fairer see,
Renew their sceptres and their crowns of gold
On which Heaven's good aspects so blended be.*

*Of thy great house, thy race, thine offspring hie,
Here hast thou seen the branch, the bole, the root;
And as these worthies born to chivalrie
And deeds of arms, it hath tofore brought out,
So is it, so it shall be fertile still,
Nor time shall end, nor age that seed shall kill.*

*That like thine elders so thou mightest behold
Thy children many, famous, stout and bold."*

(NOTE: We are indebted to Miss Mary Pettus Thomas, Memphis, Tenn. for these quotations. M.F.W.)

"The chief of Este's ancient sway."

"Nor sit on Este's lineal throne."

*"Yet were a few short summers mine
My name should more than Este's shine
With honors all my own."*

*"When charging to the cheering cry
Of "Este and of Victory."*

"John Fleming the eldest son of the last Earl succeeded to the title and estates. Of his history very little is known. He married Anna, dau. of Henry, Lord Ker, by whom he had a daughter, Jane, who became the wife of George Maule, Lord Panmure.

He had only inherited the estates a period of three years when he died in 1668 and leaving no male issue was succeeded by his brother William who had entered the army the year previous, his commission as an ensign in General Thomas Dalziel's own company of foot being dated 26th July 1667" (page 557).

HOUSE OF ESTE

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica," Vol. IX (1910), pages 792-93, 11th Edition; "House of Este," by the Chancellor Masters and Scholars of the University of Cambridge.

"Este, one of the oldest of the former reigning houses of Italy. It is in all probability of Lombard origin and descended, according to Muratori, from the princes who governed in Tuscany in Carolingian times.

The lordship of the town of Este was first acquired by Alberto Azzo II who, also, bore the title of Marquis of Italy. He married Kunitza or Kunegonda (or Cunegonda), sister of Welf or Guelph III, duke of Carinthia. Welf died without issue and was succeeded by Welf IV, son of Kunitza, who married a daughter of Otto II, duke of Bavaria, and who obtained the duchy of Bavaria in 1070.

Through him the house of Este became connected with the princely houses of Brunswick and Hanover from which the sovereigns of England are descended.

The Italian titles and estates were inherited by Folco I (1060-1135) son of Alberto Azzo by his second wife, Gerseude, dau. of Herbert I, Count of Maine.

The house of Este played a great part in the history of medieval and Renaissance Italy and it comes to the front in the wars between the Guelphs and Ghibellines; as leaders of the former party its princes received at different times Ferrara, Modena, Reggio and other fiefs and territories. Obizzo I, son of Folco, was the first to bear the title of Marquis of Este. He entered into the Guelphic league against the emperor Frederick I and was comprehended in the treaty of Venice of 1177 by which municipal podestas (foreigners chosen as heads of cities to administer justice impartially) were instituted. He was elected podesta of Padua in 1178 and in 1184 he was reconciled with Frederick who created him Marquis of Genoa and Milan, a dignity somewhat similar to that of imperial Vicar. By the marriage of his son Azzo to the heiress of the Marcheselle family (the story that she was carried off to prevent her marrying an enemy of the Este is a pure legend) he came to acquire great influence in Ferrara, although he was opposed by the hardly less powerful house of Torelli.

Obizzo died in 1194, and Azzo V having predeceased him, the marquisate devolved on his grandson Azzo VI (1170-1212), who became head of the Guelph party, and to him the people sacrificed their liberty by making him their first lord (1208). But during his life-time civil war raged in the city between the Este and the Torelli; each party being driven out again and again.

Azzo (also called Azzolino) died 1212 and was succeeded by Aldobrandino I who in 1513 concluded a treaty with Salinguerra Torelli, the head of that house, to divide the government of the city between them. On his death (1215) he was succeeded by his brother Azzo VII (1205-1264) (surnamed Novello), but Salinguerra Torelli usurped all power in Ferrara and expelled Azzo (1222).

In 1240 Pope Gregory IX, determined on another war against the emperor Frederick II, but deemed it wise to begin by crushing the chief Ghibelline houses. Thus Azzo found himself in league with the pope and various Guelph cities in his attempt to regain Ferrara. That town underwent a four months' siege and was at last compelled to surrender; Salinguerra was sent to Venice as a prisoner and Azzo ruled Ferrara once more.

The Ghibelline party was annihilated, but the city enjoyed peace and happiness within, although her citizens took part in the wars raging outside.

The Guelph cause triumphed, Frederick being defeated several times, and after his death Azzo helped in crushing the terrible Eccelino da Romano (q. v.) who upheld the imperial cause at the battle of Cassano (1259). He died in 1264 and was succeeded by Obizzo II (1240-1293), his grandson, who in 1288 received the lordship of Modena and that of Reggio in 1289. He was a capable but cruel ruler and while professing devotion to the Guelph cause did homage to the German King Rudolph I when he descended into Italy."

Feb. 13, 1293, and was succeeded by his son Azzo VIII, but the latter's brothers, Aldobrandino and Francesco, who were to have shared in the government, were expelled and became his bitter enemies. The misgovernment of Azzo led to the revolt of Reggio and Modena, which shook off his yoke. Enemies arose on all sides and he spent his last years in perpetual fighting. He died 1308 and having no legitimate children, his brothers, his natural son, Fresco, and others disputed the succession. A papal legate was appointed and though the Este returned they were placed under perpetual tutelage.

"The history of the house now becomes involved and of little interest until we come to Nicholas III (1384-1441) who exercised sway over Ferrara and Modena.

ii Ericolo Esteuse. At Borso's death in 1471 he tried to succeed his uncle with the aid of the people of Mantua, but failed. In 1476 he made another attempt accompanied by 700 foot soldiers and entered the city. They fought in the streets and public places, but he had to flee and was afterwards captured in a marsh near Bondeno, brought to Ferrara during the night of Sept. 5, 1476, imprisoned in Castle Zecchio and beheaded.

2 Borso, b. 1413; d. 1471.

3 Ercole, b. 1431; d. 1505.

Mario Equiscolo makes this statement in his fragmentary manuscripts concerning the departure of Francesco, Sept. 15, 1471:

"The illustrious Marquis Francesco of Este who was the son of Marquis Leonnello, left Ferrara to go and live in Burgundy, by the will of Duke Ercole, he having granted him an income of one hundred ducats per month; and, in order that he should go at once, he gave him horses and clothes and five hundred ducats more; and this was done because His Excellency had some suspicions of him because he was much beloved by the people on account of his courtesy and liberality, and, also, because he was a handsome, well disposed young man.

'Francesco, natural son of Marquis Leonnello, went to Burgundy and afterward to England.' These were the words written on the back of the picture of Francesco found in a collection of paintings near Ferrara, among the pictures of Esteuse. After further researches I was convinced that this portrait of Francesco was what was wanted, he being the only Esteuse, historians say, that since his departure from Ferrara, was never more heard of.

At Modena the records confirm his departure for Burgundy Sept. 15, 1471.

Rev. D. Gordon Estes, late rector of St. James Church, Amesbury, Massachusetts, while on one of his tours through Europe, made many inquiries and gave much time in search among the libraries and picture galleries of Italy as to what might bring to light concerning the Este or Esteuse family thereabouts. His labors were not fruitless though he never lived to know the result.

After Mr. Estes death, which occurred Aug. 14, 1874, a letter was received from a gentleman interested in antiquarian research, delighting to pore over musty documents and works of art; in the letter which he writes at Ferrara, dated June 16, 1875, he says that since the day he met Mr. Estes in Italy and learned his mission, he, also, had become interested and research on his part had been rewarded; and now he could say that he had found what, to his mind, he judged, Mr. Estes was searching for.

Four months before he wrote the letter he says: 'I was viewing a collection of paintings near Ferrara, at the house of a wealthy and passionate amateur; I happened to see among the pictures of Esteuse, known to me, one I had never seen before, an oil painting on wood, thirty-three centimeters high and seventeen and a half wide.

I begged the owner to allow me to examine it more closely, and, to my great surprise, I found written on the back of the picture in bad Latin and Greek characters, this legend. 'Francesco, natural son of Marquis Leonnello, went to Burgundy and afterward to England.'

The gentleman also writes that after fruitless efforts to obtain the picture, finally had it photographed and sent it in the letter.

FRANCESCO ESTEUSE

"Francesco, natural son of Marquis Leonello, went to Burgundy and afterward to England." These were the words written on the back of the picture of Francesco found in a collection of paintings near Ferrara, among the pictures of Esteuse.

ALFONSO D'ESTE, DUKE OF FERRARA
(1486-1534)

BROTHER OF ISABELLA AND BEATRICE D'ESTE

This picture, painted by Titian, is in the Munsey Collection (1927), Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

The portrait is painted on an olivaster ground, having a black cap, blonde hair, a lace collar and the dress of the period, resembling much the picture of his father, Leonnello, Lord of Ferrara.

From what was written on the back of the picture it seems to be the purpose of the writer to shield Francesco from discovery on account of some acts of a rebellious nature for which his brother, being apprehended, suffered death, and, he, Francesco, escaped, and the fact mentioned was his passage from Burgundy to England, a new historical point. And as the time coincided with that when Edward conquered England with the aid of Burgundy, it seems rational to believe, as the writing affirms, that our Francesco had not only followed Edward but that after Edward's victory made England his home."

Introduction to "Estes Genealogies, 1097-1893," by Chas. Estes.

Francesco Esteuse, b. between 1434 and 1444 (illegitimate son of Leonnello), had removed to Burgundy. In the time of Duke Borso he came to Ferrara, and at Borso's death was declared rebellious by Ercole because of the useless efforts made by his brother, Ericolo, to seize the power. Francesco returned to Burgundy and was heard of no more from that time Sept. 15, 1471.

- 2 Borso succeeded Leonnello, 1450; b. 1413; d. May 27, 1471; unmd. He was created Duke of Modena and Reggio by the Emperor Frederick III, and Duke of Ferrara by the Pope.

In spite of the wars by which Italy was torn, Ferrara enjoyed a period of peace and prosperity under Borso; he patronized literature and surrounded himself with learned men and his court was of unparalleled splendor.

- 3 Ercole succeeded Borso 1471; b. 1431; d. 1505; md. Leonora of Aragon, dau. of Ferrenta, King of Naples, d. Oct. 11, 1493. Children:
 - i Beatrice d'Este, b. June 29, 1470; d. Jan. 2, 1497; md. Jan. 17, 1491, Lodovico Sforza (1451-1508). (Issue given in "Beatrice d'Este," by Julia Cartwright, brings in famous families of history.)
 - ii Isabella d'Este, b. May 18, 1474; d. 1539; md. Feb. 11, 1490, Marquis of Mantua, Gian Francesco Gonzaga (issue given in full in "Isabella d'Este," by Julia Cartwright).

- iii Ferrenta d'Este, b. 1477; d. 1540.
- iv Ippoloto d'Este (1479-1520), became Cardinal and known as Cardinal d'Este.
- v Don Alfonso d'Este, Duke of Ferrara, b. July 21, 1486; d. 1534; md. (1) Anna Sforza, d. 1497; md. (2) Lucrezia Borgia, d. 1519.

Pictures of the above families are given in "Illustrious Families in Italy," Vol. II, by Conte Pompeo Litta. They are very beautiful. Beatrice and Isabella d'Este were famous in history for their beauty, brilliancy and culture in literature and art.

NOTE: "Face of Mona Lisa again identified. Pointed out as Isabella d'Este, a Renaissance beauty."

"Paris. A new controversy has broken out in the art world as to whose lovely features, with the tantalizing smile, it was that adorned Leonardo da Vinci's historic canvas, Mona Lisa. When Leonardo da Vinci was 47 he met Isabella in her magnificent court at Mantua. She was then 25, a Renaissance beauty. Leonardo did several profile studies of Isabella in the 15th and beginning of the 16th century. It is claimed that the face of Isabelle d'Este is the face of Mona Lisa.

The difficulty has been that the Mona Lisa is almost full face, while the chalk drawings of Isabella are all in profile. But the resemblance is there" (according to Dr. Raymond S. Sites).

NOTE: For over twenty-five years we have written letters trying to procure the picture of Francesco Esteuse. No one seemed to know where it could be found. We kept on trying and our effort was rewarded in 1937 when Mrs. Chas. Estes, wife of Chas. Estes, compiler of "The Estes Genealogies 1097-1893," mailed the negative of the picture to us.

We are glad that we can present this picture to our readers. As far as we know this picture has never before been put in publication. We consider it a great triumph for "The Cary-Estes Genealogy."

We regret that we have no record of him after he went to England.

Ancestry

*"When first I began my search to see
What I could learn of my Ancestry,
They seemed to me so far away
As if they had lived in Caesar's day;
But my interest grew and great pains I took
To find my own in each history's book.
As their names and deeds came to the light
The ages vanished like mists of the night;
As they came so near I seemed to see
My beloved, forgotten Ancestry.*

*Now I have them with me with their powdered hair,
Wearing beruffled shirts, so debonair;
Their pleated coats and flowered vests,
The signet rings with their jeweled crests;
The satin breeches that fit so tight,
Begemmed knee clasps shining bright;
Long silk stockings and polished shoe
With their buckles of brightened silver, too;
They seem so near and dear to me,
My new found friends, my Ancestry."*

THE ESTES FAMILY IN VIRGINIA

"The pride of blood has a most important and beneficial influence. It is much to feel that the high and honorable belong to a name that is pledged to the present by the recollection of the past." L. E. Landon.

The name written Estes is plural and is used to represent the whole family. It is found on ancient records in the various forms of Est, d'Este, Este, Esteuse (page vii, introduction, "Estes Genealogies 1097-1893," by Chas. Estes).

The modern spelling is East, Eastis, Eastes, Estis and Estes which is the accepted form of spelling for the American family today.

Will of Elisha³ Estes—

"In the name of God amen: I, Elisha Estes of the county of Nelson, knowing the uncertainty of this mortal life, and being of sound disposition of mind and memory, do make and ordain this my last will and Testament in the following manner, to wit:

It is the will and desire that my Executors, herein after named, shall as soon after my death as may appear to them right, proceed to sell all my real and personal Estate, or any part thereof, for the payment of my just debts as they may think fit, or, if they shall think it best and more agreeable to my children to keep the same together, they shall do so unless the speedy payment of my debts should require such sale of the whole or any part of the said estate.

Secondly: I do hereby desire and authorize my executors to sell a certain tract of land in the County of Caroline whereon William Johnson, now lives; and, also, to collect as speedily as possible all the rents due from said Johnson, which together, with the purchase money arising from the sale of the said land, I wish, also to considered as fund for the payment of my debts.

Thirdly: After all my just debts shall be paid and satisfied, my will and desire is that all the residues of my estate, both real and personal of what nature or kind, soever, shall at the discretion of my executors be sold and the proceeds of the same equally divided among all my children which I give and devise to them, their heirs, Executors and Administrators forever. But in this division my daughter, Elizabeth Goodloe Johnson, shall account for the sum of 35 pounds, 4 shillings and six pence advanced by me to that amount.

Fourthly: It is my will and desire while my estate is kept together that my Executors shall annually appropriate so much of the crops or the proceeds thereof towards the support and maintenance of my unmarried children, as they may see fit, which shall be accounted for by them, respectively, at the division of my estate heretofore mentioned.

Fifthly and Lastly: I do hereby constitute my nephew, Triplete T. Estes, Guardian for my three children, to wit, Mary Tompkins Estes, Benjamin Tompkins Estes and Elisha Blueford Estes, and it is my desire that the said Guardian shall give to my son Elisha Blueford Estes a tolerable good English education and that the expenses which may occur from the same to be paid out of my estate by my Executors, and, also, that my son, Elisha Blueford, shall be instructed in such useful trades as his Guardian may in his discretion think best. I do, hereby constitute and appoint James Murphy, Triplete T. Estes, James Johnson and Abraham E. Warwick executors of this my last Will.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this fourth day of January in the Year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and twelve.

(Signed and Sealed in the presence of us as witnesses as for the last will and Testament of Elisha Estes.)

LUNENBURG RECORD ORDER BOOK

In Lunenburg County Court the 12th Day of April, 1865.

"It is the opinion of this Court that Robert Estes, Sen'r have leave to build the Court-House, two prisons, stocks and Pillory for this country upon his land at the place where the Court is now held, to be done in the following manner, that is to say, a Court House of the same dimensions and to be done in the same manner as that of Dinwiddie County; one of the prisons to be twelve feet square in the clear for to hold criminals and to be done in such manner as the gentlemen hereafter appointed shall direct, the other to be done agreeable to a former order of this Court for to hold debtors in which is already begun, and the stocks and Pillory to be done in the common manner, and the Court do allow the said Estes the term of two years from this time for to complete the prison for criminals and till July Court next, to do the stocks and Pillory and it is ordered that the Court-House of said County be established at the said place, and, Joseph Williams, Thomas Tabb and David Garland, Gentlemen, are appointed to take bond and security of the said Estes for his doing and completing the said buildings in a workmanlike manner and with the respective times before mentioned, and it is ordered and directed that the said gentlemen inspect and overlook the said buildings when finished, and it is ordered that a Brick chimney be built to the said Court-House at the expense of this county."

The 9th Day of August, 1765:

"On the motion of Robert Estes, Sen'r it is ordered and agreed that the said Estes' former bond given for the building of the Court-House for this county be taken in, and that a new one be given for building the said Court-House forty feet by twenty and ten feet clear in the pitch to be done except as to the alteration agreeable to a former order of Court."

The 14th Day of August, 1766:

"On the motion of Robert Estes, Senior, he hath leave to renew his ordinary License at the Court-House, whereupon he bond, with William Taylor, his security according to law."

LUNENBURG COUNTY, VIRGINIA

("The Old Free State," by Landon C. Bell, Vol. I)

"In the archives of the War Department is preserved the original muster roll of Captain James Johnson's Company for the period from February 2, 1776, to the 31st of May 1777. It is entitled 'A Muster Roll of Capt. James Johnson's Company in the 6th Virginia Regiment of Continental Forces, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel James Hendricks from 2nd Feb. 1776 to 31st May 1777.' Among the many names mentioned was Jno. Estis (Estes) private" (pages 217-18 in "The Old Free State" by Landon C. Bell).

"The War Department's archives contain the 'Muster roll of Capt. Nicholas Hobson's Company of the Sixth Virginia Regiment of Continental Forces, commanded by Lieut. Col. James Hendricks to the 31st of May, 1777'" (pages 220-1).

Shows William Estes among the privates.

"The muster roll of Captain Hobson's company for June 1777 has names of George Estes, William Estes. Original in the War Department, Old Records Division" (page 222).

"The March 1778 pay roll shows that this company had but five private soldiers . . . George Estes is one name. These were the heroic survivors from this company of the incredible winter at Valley Forge" (page 224).

"The movements of the Lunenburg companies following the winter at Valley Forge, we can only surmise from the knowledge we have of the history of the units to which they were presumably attached . . . Captain John Stokes, in 1778 and 1779, commanded a company which embraced a number of men from the companies already mentioned . . . The pay rolls of this company for Dec. 1778 and from February to June inclusive 1779, are in the archives of the War Department, as is that for November 1779."

Among names listed George Eastes (Estes) Corporal (pages 233-34).

"We record such fragmentary data as we have been able to gather. Relatively little has survived the ravages of time and neglect. Lunenburg's part in that great struggle (The Revolution), seems to have been strangely neglected, . . . No one has essayed the task of narrating the history of her contribution to the cause of American Independence. A strange neglect. And the same, largely, may be said of Mecklenburg, Charlotte, Halifax, Pittsylvania, Bedford, Prince Edward, Brunswick, Amelia, Nottoway and other counties in South side Virginia. And now, when an historian attempts the story, especially as far as Lunenburg is concerned, the available data are meagre, indeed, in respect to details. Many old files which might have served a useful purpose have been destroyed. From various reliable sources, largely from the County Court Order Books, which are intact, the following list has been compiled of Lunenburg soldiers in the Revolutionary War. They are principally of the militia units . . . among names . . . John Estes" (pages 266-68).

"Sept. 7, 1935

My dear Mrs. Webb:

I have completed reading the Caroline Order Books up to the period needed to prove the paternity of your Benjamin Estes. I hope you feel the results are worth the price it has cost you.

These books are photostat copies and the writing is quite fine, so it takes quite a little time to cover them. At any rate, we have found the father of your Benjamin and his line back to the Abraham of King and Queen County.

We also know enough about the people with whom they are connected to have pretty good leads towards finding out who the wife Elizabeth was.

I am sorry I did not read the Caroline Books before going to Lunenburg for these records simply give collateral lines. I am also sorry that the research in the land office gave no earlier information of the Abraham Estes of King and Queen County. He, evidently, bought or "married" the land he paid tax on in 1704. Mrs. Nugent's next book may show him as a headright. Her first books list several Easts but none of them seem to furnish any clue, so far as I can see, to your Abraham.

In looking over the notes from the Caroline Order Books, I think you will agree with me that Abraham Estes, Jr., was probably married twice. Abraham and the Phillip (whom Elizabeth had so much trouble with) by the first wife, and the others for whom she was appointed guardian. I do hope we will be able to find out who she was for all of the people with whom she was connected were prominent and important ones in the county. Everything indicates Abraham, Jr. was the eldest son of Abraham of King and Queen County.

I am sorry the search did not develop more information but I did my best.

Cordially, Blanche Adams Chapman"

"Oct. 6, 1935

My dear Mrs. Webb:

I fear you will never find any further clues to the children of Abraham Estes, Sr., beyond those certainly proven by the records from land office.

The loss of the King and Queen records will prevent your ever knowing definitely which are sons and which grandsons. I am hoping Mrs. Nugent's next book of Land Patents will show when Abraham Estes came and who brought him in. This seems your only hope, to learn anything of him, unless some English boat list gives him.

Both the Lunenburg and Caroline families carried the same names; the Bartlett is the only one not used in Caroline, and your line has the Edmund and Philip that does not show up in the Lunenburg descendants but sounds as if there might be a Pendleton connection. I believe the identity of Elizabeth can be learned if these families are worked out with whom they figured in Caroline, for, invariably, these people who appear on their papers turn out to be relatives.

B.A.C."

"I have had access to the proof sheets of Mrs. Nugent's Vol. II, but found no further mention of Abraham Estes. (Signed) R. A. Stewart, June 1938."

B. 1767-70, page 39: In 1767 Mary Ann was over 14 and Benj. and Edmund under 14.) He d. in Bedford County (formed from Lunenburg County in 1754) between June 8 and July 22, 1816, when his last will and testament was made and proved. He and his wife are buried at Lowry Farm near Lynchburg.

NOTE: "The City of Lynchburg is in Campbell Co. (which was cut off from Bedford Co. in 1782), and the land conveyed by the deed referred to is in Campbell Co. If you will look at the map of this county, at a station on the N. and W. railway, named Lowry, and on the left of the railway running to the East and just North of the tract, you will see the tract of land that was owned by the late Benjamin Estes at his death, which occurred between 8th June and 22nd July, 1816, the date of probating his will. It is a beautiful tract of about 500 acres. In the garden attached to the residence both Mr. Estes and his wife lie buried. Signed R. D. Buford, Bedford City, Va. Nov. 30, 1908."

THE EARLY CHURCHES

"The Old Free State. A History of Lunenburg County and South Side, Virginia." by Landon C. Bell. Vol. I, Chapter IX, pages 351-2. Vol. I, II, Books loaned us by Mr. Reau E. Folk, Nashville, Tenn.

Excerpts: "In favor of such a general assessment law, a petition from Lunenburg was presented to the General Assembly, Nov. 8, 1783. It is as follows:—

The humble petition and remonstrance of all Sects and Denominations of Christians within the State: Showeth That soon after the Declaration of Independency the General Assembly, with a view to the promotion of religious liberty and free Toleration, thought proper, by Act to suspend the collection and payment of the salaries formerly allowed by Law, Inducted Ministers of the Gospel; whereby all the Citizens of the state became emancipated & free from contributions to any church revenue.

That from that period we have with pain and regret, seen the propagation of the Gospel die away in many parts of the country; and its diligent and faithful ministers neglected; through a want of that Holy zeal in their adherents as Christians to support their respective churches with the Dignity becoming their profession and public virtue as citizens, to propagate and cherish the sacred test of truth; as a necessary and indispensable branch of Civil Government.

That the indifference and impiety of those who are careless of their salvation, and equally deaf and negligent to all religions must greatly increase the burdens of the people of God who wish to support the Cause of Christianity (as they have done that of freedom) even with their last mite.

. . . We wish for the establishment of a free and universal Toleration Subject to the Constitution; we would have no sect or Denomination of Christians privileged to encroach upon the rights of another. For the accomplishment of these desirable purposes we wish to see the reformed Christian religion supported and maintained by a General and equal contribution of the whole state upon the most equitable footing that is possible to place it.

We therefore pray that you, our Representatives in General Assembly . . . will adopt such mode as your wisdom shall suggest . . . for the support of the Christian Churches

The framers of this petition and remonstrance, will not presume on further particulars, only trust to your wisdom and Justice for the redress."

This able paper was signed by a very long list of well known names, among them, BENJ. ESTIS.

"Mr. P. M. Estes: I have a letter from a Texas relative. All she knows of Benjamin Estes is that he was a preacher, which, perhaps, accounts for him not being in the war of 1776, being a preacher he may have been excused from active service.

This Texas relative says she descends from William Estes who was a physician and served in the war of 1812; he was a son of Benjamin and married Susan Shelton. William's house burned and with it all of his books, Bibles and family records.

Sincerely,
V.M.O."

"Bedford City, Va.

Jan. 9, 1909.

Dear Miss Annebel:

. . . In former days the ministers were very remiss in making returns of the celebrating of marriages, hence where there was no return I have made the memorandum from the old marriage license Bonds, giving the dates when licenses were issued.

On yesterday an incident occurred that was so remarkable that I must tell you. On looking over an old Order Book of the Court, about a matter in no way connected with the Estes family, I accidently discovered an order admitting to record the Will of one John H. T. Estes. Believing that no such Will was indexed, I determined to examine the Will and found it and then had it indexed. It was, of course, an accident. But to think the Will had remained so many years and had not been indexed was a very remarkable occurrence in a public office. John H. T. Estes was a son of Benjamin Estes and was unmarried. His Will is dated Feb. 1816 and he died between that date and the 29th March when his Will was admitted to probate.

His father's Will was dated June 8th, 1816, and he died between that date and the 22nd July 1816 when his Will was probated.

John H. T. Estes had a small estate which he bequeathed to his brothers Thomas and Thorp. Let me say to you again that it was nothing uncommon many years ago, when persons made Wills, to make their marks instead of writing their names . . .

I have borrowed from the Clerk's office four original papers for your own inspection; three of which are signed by Benjamin Estes and two of them drawn wholly in his own handwriting; one is signed by Mr. Estes and his wife. The remaining paper is signed by Joel Estes and his wife. After you have scanned these several papers please return them to me. All are originals and signed with the hands of the parties referred to.

Yours truly,
(Signed) R. D. Buford."

" . . . I am now in my 82nd year and hale and hearty . . . I was Clerk for nearly fifty years. I am now out of public life. Many letters are written here making enquiries about many people long since passed away. These letters are referred to me.

I am a lawyer but not practicing now . . . I was once well to do in this life as far as money is concerned . . . I try to accomodate my correspondents by charging them very moderate fees for my service. Their demands sometimes require an amount of labor that they have not the remotest idea of. I have correspondents all over the United States of America.

R. D. Buford"

"The foregoing is a copy of documents furnished me by Mr. R. D. Buford of Bedford City, Va., and of letters from him in reference to the Estes family. Mr. Buford is of a very prominent family and a man of the highest character and standing in the place where he lives. He was a clerk of the County Court of Bedford County for about fifty years."

Excerpts from a letter written by Hon. P. M. Estes, Nashville, Tennessee, 1910, which gives account of Benjamin Estes and his son Joel Estes.

"My dear May:

One defect in the way of making these investigations is that many of the records in Virginia were burned during the War between the States. For example, the records of Buckingham Co. have all been destroyed. A similar fate befell the records of Caroline County, where I am quite sure Benjamin Estes came from.

If the search is unremitting enough, however, evidences can be found of family history, even though many of the records have been destroyed. I was told, for example, that marriage records and many other records in Chesterfield Co. were destroyed, but nevertheless, I found the marriage records of Joel Estes, who was a Captain in the War of 1812. I have a certificate to that effect. His brother Triplett T. Estes was also a Captain.

I learned a great deal about both of these, and also their father Benjamin, while on my several trips to Virginia.

Benjamin Estes was a man of large means for his day. His son Joel Estes was recognized as a man of force and great energy and influence. . . .

Our grandfather was Moreau Pinckney Estes who married Mary Quarles Noel. I have a photo of both. Her father was Ewell Noel who came to what was then Haywood Co., Tenn., and is now known as Crockett Co. in 1832 from Hanover Co., Va. I have no doubt that the records of the Noels could be found for several generations back of Ewell."

"This will certify that the Deed Trust Executed by Triplett T. Estes to Joel Estes as Trustee, and recorded in Bedford Court for my Benefit or the purpose therein mentioned, is fully satisfied by the said Triplett T. Estes and I have no further claim or claims on him.

Given under my hand This 24th Sept. 180seven.

Benjamin Estes Teste: William Lowry
Thos. Lowry."

"At a Court held for Bedford County at Courthouse the 28th day of Sept. 1807. This Release from Benjamin Estes to Triplett T. Estes in discharge of a Deed of Trust from said Triplett T. Estes to Joel Estes, was proven by the oath of William Lowry and Thomas Lowry the subscribing witnesses and ordained to be recorded.

Teste: J. Steptoe C.B.C."

DESCENDANTS OF JOEL ESTES⁴ OF BEDFORD COUNTY, VIRGINIA, AND HAYWOOD COUNTY, TENNESSEE

IV JOEL⁴ ESTES (second child of *Benjamin*³, son of *Abraham*², *Abraham*¹), b. in Bedford County, Virginia Jan. 22, 1780; d. Aug. 16, 1833, near Waverly, Tennessee while enroute to his home in Haywood County, Tennessee from Virginia where he had been on business with a New Orleans party.

This country was practically a wilderness and his grave was never identified, although his son, Moreau Pinckney Estes, visited the neighborhood around Waverly and offered a reward of one thousand dollars for the location of the grave. It was never found exactly, but on Oct. 10, 1937, a tablet was unveiled where it was placed in the yard of the Methodist Church at Waverly, near the highway. This marker to the grave of Captain Joel Estes was placed there through the New York County, Andrew Jackson Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, State of New York, of which May Folk Webb is a member and instrumental in having the approximate location marked, working in conjunction with Hon. P. M. Estes, Nashville, who was master of the ceremonies and made all arrangements.

Joel Estes was recognized as a man of force and great energy and influence, and the records show that he occupied a very high position in the family councils and in the public mind. He was a Captain in the War of 1812.

"Captain Joel Estes Co. of volunteers Riflemen from the 43 Regiment Va. Militia at present attached to the 4th Regiment (War of 1812) Commenced service September 16, 1813. The Muster Roll dated Norfolk, Va. Oct. 15, 1813, shows expiration of service Oct. 15, 1813." (Signed) P. C. Harriss Adjutant General, Oct. 30, 1920.

"The record of Captain Joel Estes from the State Library, Richmond, Va., shows that he was in the war for a longer period than above indicated, being at first an ensign, which was in a position corresponding to the rank of Lieutenant. Joel Estes was a prominent man of great energy and perseverance and owned considerable property. He ran for Congress against David Crockett about 1828, but was defeated. He was then living in Haywood Co. Tenn. where he had moved his family in the Fall of 1824."

(Excerpt from letter from P. M. Estes.) Mr. Estes owns a log chain, formerly belonging to Joel Estes. This large chain now guards the gateway to "Grayswood," his country home near Nashville.

Joel Estes md. (1) Oct. 13, 1801, in Chesterfield County, Virginia, Sarah Langhorne Bates, dau. of Daniel Bates and Elizabeth Cary (Bell), b. 1781, d. 1825, bur. near Brownsville, Haywood County, Tennessee.

ESTES DESCENDANTS TO DEDICATE MARKER
OCTOBER 10, 1937

MEMORIAL WILL BE PLACED IN WAVERLY CHURCHYARD

"Waverly, Tenn.: Descendants of Capt. Joel Estes will assemble in the Methodist churchyard here Sunday to place a marker that was voted by the New York County, Andrew Jackson Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, State of New York, of which Mrs. James Avery Webb is member. She is a great granddaughter of Capt. Joel Estes. Captain Estes organized a company in Pittsylvania County, Virginia, in the War of 1812. Later he moved to Haywood County, Tenn. On one of his return trips to Virginia with a Louisiana party he was stricken and died Aug. 16, 1833, on the trail near the Tennessee River and was buried there. Despite the efforts of the family the site of the grave was never discovered.

The Methodist Church has offered the family permission to place the marker in its churchyard and the pastor, the Rev. Boyd S. Fielder, will deliver the invocation.

Hon. P. M. Estes of Nashville will be chairman of ceremonies and Reau Estes Folk of Nashville (great grandsons) will make the principal address. Many of the great grandchildren and other relations as well as patriotic societies will attend and take part in the unveiling of the marker."

Excerpt from a letter written by Hon. P. M. Estes, June 4, 1910:

"My dear May: Our Grandfather was Moreau Pinckney Estes who married Mary Quarles Noel. I have a photo of both. I enclose a copy of a letter recently written to my Father concerning this Mary Noel which explains much that you are acquainted with in the gentle character and loving maternal interest of your Mother and all of their children."

NOEL

Cornelius Noel: "Journals of the House of Burgesses of Virginia," 1659/60-93; November 7, 1666.

(NOTE: "He must have come to America in 1652 since one had to live here fourteen years before naturalization.")

"Virginia Magazine of History and Biography," Vol. XVII, page 244-45, "Cornelius Noel petition for citizenship in this country." James City, Virginia Journal of the Grand Assembly, November 8, 1666, page 42.

"Whereas Cornelius Noel hath long lived in this Country, servant and Freeman and of the Reformed Religion and hath taken Land with a full resolution to make his constant abode in this Country and to demean himself as a true and faithful servant towards his Majesty and his Leige people, hath petitioned he might be admitted a Denizen of this Country.

"It is by the Governor Council and Burgesses of this Grand Assembly Granted and Ordered that the said Cornelius Noel be made a free Denizen.

Ut. in Aliis & Co. William Berkley, Governor."

" . . . Noel a Mariner came from England to Tappahannock, Essex County, Virginia, after 1660 with a party of Huguenots, among whom were some of his own family."

(Probably Cornelius Noel was the mariner.)

"After 1660 the Noel family in Hanover Co., Va., owned the land upon which the Noel's settled."

" . . . Noel, supposed to have been a brother settled in North Carolina."

"Old Rappahannock Record Deed Book 3," 1663-68, page 342. Feb. 16, 1666-67. Cornelius Noell, Wm. Coffin, Henry Jearman (later Jarman) and John Powell, divide land they had patented Sep. 25, 1665. (This was patented 1697 on Occupacea Creek. "State Land Office Book 5," page 469.)

"Old Rappanock Record Will and Deed Book 9," 1696-99, page 337. Will of Cornelius Noell dated Jan. 10, 1698-9, proved June 20, 1699, wife Elizabeth to son James, land called "New Holland"; dau. Eliz. Noell (who is under age) son Daniel Noell; dau. Mary Clutson, Dau. Margaret Connellie, sons Cornelius and James Noell (who are both under age.)

"Essex Deed and Will Book 10," 1699-1702, page 56, April 27, 1686. Naturalization granted Cornelius Noell, born in Holland (notice in his will he names his plantation, "New Holland.")

"I suspect he was English by descent, but his parents may have lived in Holland a while as many of the English did. John Custis, altho an Englishman, lived in Rotterdam until he came to Virginia." H.

ESSEX COUNTY RECORDS

(Essex County was formed in 1692 from a part of Old Rappahannock.)

Cornelius Noel, b. —; d. 1699; md. Elizabeth —. Children: James, b. by 1678 (since he was of age when his father made his will). This is probably he: "Essex Will Book 6," page 295: Will of Jas. Noel, dated October 15, 1733, proved April 21, 1741, mentions sons Jas. Cornelius, John, Edward, Joseph and Thomas to whom he leaves land lying on Occupacea Creek; wife Eliz. "to three sons, Rice, Reuben and Richard and 2 daughters, Milly and Hester 3 parts of the rest of my negroes and my personable estate." Wife extrix. and sons Jas. and Cornelius exor. (This sounds as if he were married twice.)

Wit: Thos. Ramsey, Richard Ellitt, Caleb Ellitt.

"Will Book 6," page 338, September 15, 1741, Division of Jas. Noell's estate. The shares of the estate coming to Thos., Rice, Reuben, Rich'd and Milly were left in the hands of the Estrix (showing these children were under age). Esther by this time was married and received her share as Esther Garnett.

("Virginia County Records I.") Richard C. Noel of Essex County md. Mary Crutchfield of Spotsylvania County (Deed Book, page 453, No. 1).

(Halifax County Virginia Census 1785) Thomas Noell: 12 white souls, 2 dwellings, 2 other dwellings.

Cornelius Noel, b. —; d. —; md. Anna —.

Estate appraised Jan. 19, 1767; Will Book 12. Appraisement of estate of Cornelius Noel; Anna Noel, Admtrix; same Will Book, page 438, Dec. 16, 1771, settlement of Anna Noel's estate; Cornelius Noel, Jr. is mentioned. Mary, eldest dau. of Cornelius Noel ("Virginia County Records, Vol. VI, page 11).

Cornelius Noel, Jr., b. about 1757; d. in Bedford County, Virginia, 1821; md. Sally (probably Ewell of Hanover County, although the last name is not mentioned), dau. of Thomas Ewell and Mary (Bennett) ("Virginia Magazine of History and Biography," Vol. XXXI, page 347). Thomas Ewell and Mary Bennett Ewell deed to lands in Virginia ("Virginia Magazine of History and Biography," Vol. XXI, page 298). "Capt. Thos. Ewell for police ("Virginia Revolutionary Army Records," Mar. 20, 1778).

(Will of Cornelius Noel in full on pages 201-202.)

"Archives Division Virginia State Library, Caroline Chancery Court Papers," July 2, 1792. By this date Mary, dau. of Stapleton Crutchfield, had married Richard, son of Rice Noel of Essex County.

(This information is also given in "Crozier's Spotsylvania County," page 453. Rice was a son of Jas. Noel, d. 1741, in Essex County (secured by B.A.C.).

"The records of Hanover County prior to 1865 were destroyed in that year. There are no records here prior to that date."

(Signed) C. W. Taylor, Clerk, November 1937.

NOTE: We have written innumerable letters trying to verify the last name of Sally (wife of Cornelius Noel, Jr.). From names continued in the Noel and in the Estes families, it seems plausible that Sally was an Ewell and that Ewell Noel was one of the children, although his name is not mentioned in the Will of Cornelius Noel, Jr. The names, Cornelia, Thomas Ewell and Ewell Noel, Thomas Ewell Estes have passed to several generations. M. F. W.

Noell Family in "Virginia Genealogy Magazine," Vol. IX, No. 2, Feb. 1920.

Cornelius Noell, Sr., died in Bedford County, Virginia, in 1821; he left a will dated 14 Oct. 1820 which was probated in Bedford County, 27 March 1821. In it he mentions his wife, Sally Noell; dau. Ann Cobbs; Sally Milner; Elizabeth Ronald; Peggy Estes (md. Benjamin T. Estes, March 22, 1813, son of Benjamin Estes); Polly Milner, Susan Merritt; Cornelius Noel; Jesse Noell, Simon M.; James; John, Cabel. Simon M., Cornelius and Jesse Noell qualified as executors of the will.

Jesse Noell died in Bedford County, Virginia, October 1821; he left a non-cupative will which was proved and probated in Bedford County 27 November 1821. His wife was Miss Judith Shelton Price, dau. of Charles Price to whom he was married 17 January 1802; he left his estate to his wife and children, Livingstone P. Noell; Lameria A.; Eliza S.; Catherine J., md. William D. Street; Jesse M. Noell.

Subsequently on December 23, 1824, Mrs. Judith S. Noell, widow of Jesse Noell, deceased, united in marriage with John L. Cobbs. The following are the children of that marriage: Virginia L. Cobbs, md. Charles W. Price; Amanda Cobbs; Thomas N. Cobbs, md. Miss Margaret L. Buford.

Mrs. Judith Shelton Cobbs died in 1848, and in 1849 the two sets of children united in a friendly suit in the County Court of Bedford and had the two estates of the late Jesse Noell and Mrs. Judith S. Cobbs equally divided between them.

Thomas Noell died in Bedford County, Virginia 1831. He left a will dated 9 September 1831 which was probated in Bedford County 26 September 1831. His wife is not mentioned in his will; it is presumed she had departed life. He mentions his daughter, Polly P. Noell; Catherine Falls; son, John C. Noell; Zachary Noell; dau. Permeter Douglass, son-in-law, Uriah Hatcher who married daughter, Nancy Noell; son Richard Noell's two daughters, Mary and Carrisinda; dau. Theodosia Baughn's nine children, to wit: Adeline; Johnson; Sarah; Gilliam; Samuel H. Baughn; Richard C. Baughn; Elizabeth Baughn, Frances Baughn; Milliard Baughn.

Milliard, Zachary Baughn and John C. Noell qualified as executors of the will.

Charles Noell died in Bedford County, Virginia 1839; he left a will dated 20 August 1833 which was probated in Bedford County Court 28, January 1839. In it he mentions his wife Susan Noell; dau. Mary L. Noell; Nancy D. Noell; Avery G. Noell; Martha H. Noell; son William E. Noell; dau. Elizabeth H.

Gaines, wife of Robert F. Gaines; grandson Charles I. Fox, son of dau. Catherine N. Fox; granddau. Sally Ann Fox, dau. of dau. Catherine N. Fox. William E. Noell qualified as executor of will 22 April 1839.

1. Page 57, line 37. Documented date and place of David Bell's death is unavailable.
Ref.: ARGUS, a Richmond, Va. newspaper, Vol. XX, p. 364 was death date of another David Bell who died in his 20's, perhaps our David Bell's nephew, son of his brother Henry.
Source: Head Archivist, Va. State Library, Richmond, Va. David Bell lived in Buckingham Co. at the time of his death. All records were destroyed by fire during the Civil War. The microfilm of death records and Wills of all counties surrounding Buckingham was thoroughly examined by the author. Then the Head Archivist advised that we assume that David Bell died at his home, "Bellmont", in Buckingham Co. This exhaustive research was a vital part of Helen Estes Seltzer's proof of descendancy from the original immigrant, Miles Cary, for membership in the National Society of Colonial Dames of America.
2. Page 58, lines 14 and 15. ii Harrison (11) Branch and iii "a daughter" are children of Rebecca (10) Bell who married a Mr. Branch. They are not Rebecca's brother and sister, children of Henry (9) Bell.
Source: Since their last name is "Branch" and not "Bell", it is logical that they belong to Henrietta Bell (10) Branch and her husband, not to her father.

6. Page 61, line 41 and page 62, lines 1-9. Marriage refs. of Elizabeth Cary Bell to Daniel Bates are all incorrect and date 21 May 1776 is not documented.
Sources: Ref. 1. Not registered in "Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va." They have no such records.
Ref. 2, "Deed Book 13, p. 449" was found to refer to the marriage of Elizabeth Bell Bates' daughter, Judith Cary Bates, to John Friend. A copy of this document is included in the Cary Appendix of the CARY—ESTES—MOORE GENEALOGY.
Refs. 3 & 4. "Wm. and Mary Quarterly, Vol. XV, pp. 33-34 and Vol. XVII." Neither of these refs. mentioned the Bell-Bates marriage.
Ref. 5. "Bates Genealogy, p. 73" contained no information about this marriage.

Refs. 6 & 7. "Nat'l Cyclopaedia of Amer. Biography, Vol. VII, pp. 93 & 302, Vol. XXVIII-IX" and "Woods History of Albemarle Co., Records I, V, VI, VII" were non-existent in the knowledge of the Head Librarian of the Va. State Library and the Penna. Hist. Soc.

7. Page 64, lines 35 and 36. John Evans Uzzell's descendant, Thomas Uzzell did not come to America with Lafayette.
Source: Will Book 20, p. 342, "appraisement of the estate of Thomas Uzzell on Feb. 10, 1837." Among the articles listed of interest were one Quadrant, one box of surveyor's instruments and one 'puter still worm.' Tradition in Isle of Wight Co. runs that this Thomas was a sea captain. He was known as "Capt. Thomas Uzzell." This accounts for his possession of the quadrant, and is the basis of the erroneous tradition in the Pecan Point, Ark. branch of the family that they descended from a man who came over from France with Lafayette and commanded a ship. Stephen Uzzell, Lt. Col. - USAR - Ret., Bryn Mawr, Pa. supplied the above data from ISLE OF WIGHT RECORDS RELATING TO THE UZZELL FAMILY.
